

D. C. Thanksgiving Services Wednesday

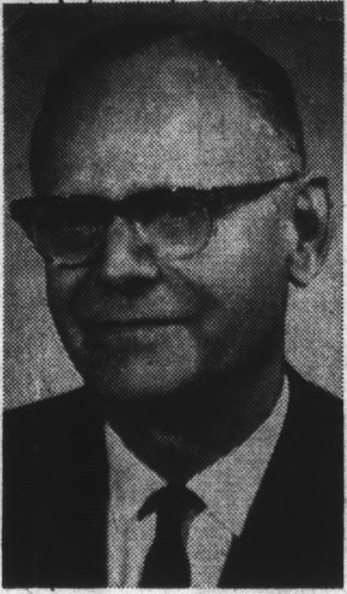

THE POST

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

Vol. 20, No. 47

DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING

Wednesday November 23, 1966

REVEREND TWEEDY

Evening Service Planned

The annual Union Thanksgiving Eve service will be held on Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 Eighty-seventh Street, Daly City.

The public service is being sponsored by the Ministerial Association of Daly City.

Speaker will be the Rev. George Hollywood of the St. Martin's Episcopal Church.

The anthem "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," will be presented by the choir of the host church. Delmar Severy will direct, with James Whitlow at the organ.

The service will begin with the host pastor, the Rev. Herbert Tweedy, giving the call to worship.

The hymn, "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come," will open the service. The Rev. Hansel Stenbridge of the Westlake Community Baptist, will deliver the welcome as Ministerial Association President.

Other pastors participating in the service are the Rev. Howard Bryant of the Second Baptist; the Rev. Ronald Grabke of the Broadmoor Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. Clifford Droke of the Wesley Methodist; the Rev. Kenneth Hansen of the Westlake Lutheran; Rabbi Solomon Shore of Congregation B'nai Israel; the Rev. Thomas Welpley of Grace Presbyterian, and the Rev. Roy Ertorf of Seacrest Community Church. The offering will go for the Night Ministry, in downtown San Francisco, which is sponsored by the Council of Churches. Also, part of the offering goes for "Share our Surplus" through Church World Service and for the community work of the Ministerial Association.

Services In Morning At B'nai Israel

Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Colma, will hold Thanksgiving Services Thursday at 11 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Herbert C. Tweedy, Pastor of Broadmoor Presbyterian Church.

Sabbath Services on November 25 will feature the celebration of Birthday Sabbath. Those Religious School children whose birthdays fall in November will be blessed and honored by Rabbi Solomon A. Shore.

The Sisterhood and Men's Club invite the community to attend their annual Hanukkah Bazaar and Carnival. It will be held on November 27 at the Westlake Park Clubhouse, Lake Merced Blvd. in Daly City from 12 noon until 5 p.m.

Hope Church Plans Rites On Thursday

Hope Lutheran Church, at 55 San Fernando Way, Daly City, will conduct a festival service of Thanksgiving at 10 a.m. Thursday.

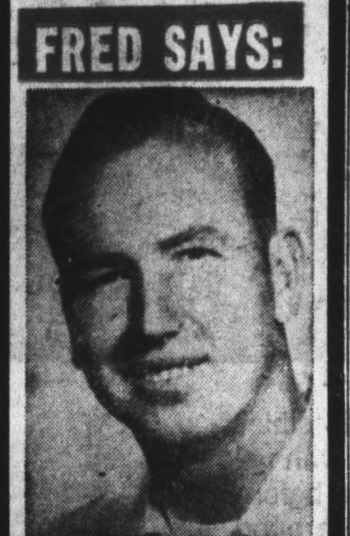

The Senior Choir, under the direction of Miss Alice Wildermuth, will sing "Psalm 150," as set to music by Cesar Franck.

The Rev. Armin H. Polster, pastor of Hope Church, will speak on the subject, "Give God First Place in Your Thanksgiving."

"Unfortunately," he said, "for many people Thanksgiving Day has become primarily an occasion for rewarding their own stomachs, while the Giver of all gifts is ignored. Surely, a true child of God will want to begin this day of gratitude in the house of God, giving Him the praise, the honor, and the gratitude that is His due."

Thanksgiving Dessert By Student Homemakers...

Everyone thinks of the turkey at Thanksgiving, but most take the pumpkin and/or mince pie desserts for granted. But, not so Pam Hailey (above) who takes a hot mincemeat pie for holiday from oven at Oceana High School, in Pacifica.

... And not so Jackie Shores (left, above) or Kathy Alexander, who are pictured as they set aside pies (and muffins, note) to cook — shortly before they were unexpectedly "served" see page two. (Post photos by Frankhouse)

DC Drivers' Examiner Cites High Injury Rate

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Last year California set another traffic record for the nation — one that most officials would just as soon forget.

During that 12-month period prospective drivers undergoing tests were involved in 451 accidents in which at least 42 state examiners were injured, several seriously, while giving road tests.

Leon T. Broussal, long-time examiner with the department's Daly City office and former president of the Examiner's Association was himself injured when the car he was riding in collided with another on North Mayfair Avenue last December.

Broussal suffered a slipped disc in his neck and has been undergoing medical treatment since.

Asked the reason for these tragic examiner-appraiser injuries,

Broussal said, "Mainly because of the increasing volume of applicants processed through our departments."

Records for the first six months of 1966 revealed 20 examiners and three applicants were injured in some 245 accidents statewide.

Five applicants died at the wheel while being given the road test and examiners had to take over driving.

"Fortunately, Daly City hasn't had any serious accidents for this year. We're keeping our fingers crossed now that the bad weather is here," Broussal said.

More than 810,500 applicants have been "pushed through" the state's licensing departments since January of this year — a substantial increase over the same period last year. Some 183,920 applicants were rejected during this period.

Many examiners feel they are not tough enough on applicants but their hands are tied "because of Sacramento's desire not to offend anyone," one examiner, who asked his identity not be revealed, said. (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Pair Robs Restaurant In S.S.F.

Two gun-toting men wearing cowboy hats calmly strode through the rear door of the New Southern Restaurant on El Camino Real in South San Francisco this morning and fled with an undetermined amount of cash after herding two employees into a restroom.

Police said one of the men wore a woman's stocking pulled over his head and carried what was believed to be a long-barreled magnum revolver. His unmasked partner brandished a

Robbers Get $2,500, Cuff 2 Patrolmen

Two San Bruno lawmen, making a routine check at Mustache's Pizza Parlor, were surprised, seized at gunpoint and handcuffed early Monday by two robbers who had just forced the bartender-manager to give them $2,500 from a floor safe.

The pair already had forced manager-bartender Robert Perry to open the Mustache safe when San Bruno patrolman Richard DeLucchi and a reserve patrolman, Dave Prellip, 24, entered the establishment at 12:39 a.m. Two women patrons also had been bound.

The Skyline Boulevard and Sharp Park Road business is one of several at which police make stops. For DeLucchi it was a general unknown area. He usually patrols downtown, but last night he went overtime to help out on another area beat.

As soon as he entered the room, DeLucchi felt a gun pressed against his head and a stern, gruff voice warned, "If you so much as move, I'll kill you!"

A man entering from a backroom put a gun barrel in the back of Prellip, then shoved him to the floor, pinned his arms behind him and handcuffed him.

DeLucchi then was handcuffed, with his hands and arms in front.

Take Police Guns
The officers' guns were taken by the pair.

DeLucchi told The Post that while the gunman handcuffed the officers with their own cuffs, manager Perry slipped out of a back door. He headed around the rear of the shopping but last night he went overtime (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Guests Taken Out, Police Nab Escapee

At least 20 sleeping occupants of a Daly City motel were quietly awakened early Sunday morning and moved to safety as a team of shotgun armed police moved in on a desperate Folsom Prison escapee.

Fearing the escapee, Joseph Mora, might be armed, the combined team of Daly City-San Francisco law officers decided to dupe the convict into leaving his room at the Town Motel on Geneva Avenue.

A San Francisco police sergeant awakened the sleeping Mora and informed him someone had smashed into his car parked at the curb.

As the ill-groggy Mora rushed outside to check his car, Daly City Police Lt. R. LaBruz, aided by Sergeant R. Ingbrigtson and officer B. Langberg, grabbed the escapee in a hallway of the motel and handcuffed him.

Other lawmen rushed into the motel room and grabbed a woman companion of Mora.

Charged with aiding an escaped felon was Shirley Ploughman, 34, who gave police a Mission district address in San Francisco.

Mora was serving an indeterminate sentence for mail theft, at the time of the October 16 escape. Police said his record over the years includes a variety of offenses.

A San Francisco waitress charged Mora raped her twice inside her apartment shortly after his escape.

Spotted by Owner
Working on a tip supplied by motel owner Carroll Roper, who spotted Mora's picture on a wanted poster, San Francisco police asked the assistance of Daly City police shortly after midnight Sunday.

Armed with shotguns, revolvers and tear gas, the combined team began moving occupants out of the motel at about 3 a.m. to a "safe" area on the far side of the building.

Police said the unarmed Mora offered little resistance when he was grabbed.

Assumed Names
According to the motel owner, the pair checked into the motel at 2:30 a.m. Friday under assumed names.

Details of Mora's escape from the maximum security Folsom Prison were not revealed, however a woman identified as Doreen Workman, 34, no known address, was also being held as an accessory to a felony — the prison escape — police said. Mora was booked into San Francisco prison for escape and suspicion of rape.

Daly City Policeman Suspended

A Daly City police sergeant, veteran of more than 11 years on the force, has been given an "indefinite suspension" for conduct unbecoming an officer.

Matthew Murray, father of five small children and a sergeant for the past four years, told The Post the charges "were completely unfounded and I will appeal them."

Murray said the suspension "came as a complete shock to me."

He was unable to get complete details concerning justification for the action.

Police Chief Roland Petroschi, Assistant Chief Roy Beecher and other high city officials refused to comment further on the matter.

In a release last Saturday the department said an investigation was under way, but would not reveal the purpose of the probe.

D. C.'s Polonsky Lashes Out at ABAG Concept

Daly City Mayor Albert Polonsky yesterday lashed out at the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG), labelling it a "big brother concept that intends to turn our county into a beehive of specialization."

Speaking at the general membership meeting of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce, Polonsky said ABAG was attempting to dispense with city governments in favor of a regional government.

ABAG was formed to deal with problems that arise between cities and has members from 85 cities and 8 counties, which meet twice each year. The executive board of ABAG, comprised of 18 city representatives, actually set the policies according to Polonsky.

"They (ABAG) are trying to establish a new type of government in the Bay Area — a San Francisco bay city," Polonsky said. "If we follow ABAG's concepts, your city and mine may no longer be that. We may be faced with a Utopia — controlled from a distant point," the mayor warned.

Polonsky said San Mateo County was in the midst of a "revolution" concerning regional government thinking.

"They are looking at all our cities as one and want the people to gear their thinking to this one regional concept," he said, adding, "when you come close to your elected city government that's good. It's harder to get close to anyone under ABAG's regional concept."

Included in the list of ABAG proposals presented during a general meeting of the organization in Berkeley, November 4, was an establishment of a third airport, waste disposal and open space planning.

The mayor said ABAG would have the power to decide "what goes where in our cities, taking away from us that responsibility."

ABAG wants to decide where employment centers and commercial (industrial) areas will be located, according to Polonsky.

"For example, if they decide Pacifica is not suited for commercial development there will be no industry — or limited industry in that city," Polonsky said. "And if there is no such development, only the property owner will suffer because he is the one that will be hit with increased taxes."

He said ABAG had not "given enough thought to who takes up the slack" when tax and area

New Bomb Scare: Pupils Stay in Class

Daly City police searched Westmoor High School yesterday morning after receiving an anonymous call a bomb had been planted inside the building and set to explode exactly at noon.

The threat was the latest in a series of bomb scares which have plagued this city in recent weeks.

Police labeled the caller a "crank" and were uncertain whether he was the same person responsible for making similar threats throughout the area.

A school official said this morning the caller "was definitely a juvenile."

Last Sunday, Cala Foods Supermarket was emptied of early morning shoppers when a bomb threat was received. No trace of the bomb could be found in the store.

Classes at Westmoor were not interrupted yesterday as squads of police assisted by school authorities combed the building

DC Drivers' Examiner Cites High Injury Rate

"We know that strong driver licensing can do much to improve traffic safety," the Daly City examiner said, "but the question is, is the public ready to accept these strong controls?"

These examiners feel that all the highway patrolmen and police officers in the state will not be able to halt the increase of traffic accidents unless stricter examinations are given.

"I firmly believe that stronger and more effective licensing is the answer to reducing these deaths, even though they may be so tough that sometimes it might inconvenience people or even create a hardship on some," he said.

He said the price of this "inconvenience" would be "well worth it if only one life is saved on our highways."

Another item examiners are now trying to get is a system of disability insurance that would offer coverage in the event they are injured in these accidents.

'Little Things' Sermon Topic

"For the Little Things," is the sermon theme of the Rev. Kenneth Hansen at the 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Day worship service at Westlake Lutheran Church, Avalon Drive at Westmoor Avenue.

This will be a special service of song and meditation for the entire family.

Child care will be provided.

Redeemer's Set Service Thursday

Thanksgiving day will be observed at the Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church at 10 a.m. The three choirs of sixty voices will assist the congregation in singing the litany of praise and thanks. The observance this year will include thanks specifically delineated around four parts.

Thanks for our country under God as depicted by the American and Christian flags, fruits of the earth depicted by children carrying baskets of fruits and vegetables, for the Christian faith, the church as depicted by church council members processing with Bible, sacramental vessels and altar appointments and thanks for the Christian message of hope and salvation as depicted by flags of nations — a universal gospel carried by children of the Carol and Viking choirs.

The Rev. Irvin Tweet, pastor, will lead the service. Choir directors for the Senior, Carol and Viking choirs are Larry Nelson, Mrs. Grace Tweet, and Mrs. William Harter.

New College At S.F. State

With San Bruno resident Dr. Urban G. Whitaker spearheading the plans, the San Francisco State College faculty has begun full-scale preparations for conversion to year-round operation, which may lead to the building, in effect, of a whole new college.

Undertaken as part of a state-wide program involving all campuses of the State Colleges and University of California, the San Francisco State change, due to take effect in 1969, will adjust the academic calendar to four quarters, including one during the summer. Presently the college operates on a calendar of two semesters and a summer session.

complex and reached a pay phone at the corner of the Safeway Market. Perry called Pacifica police and told them the story.

Meanwhile, the robbers started to panic and fled soon after Perry dashed away. They took the policemen's weapons with them.

When the suspects left, Delucchi was able to reach his handcuff key and free himself.

He rushed to the patrol car to situation to police headquarters.

Perry still was talking with the dispatcher at Pacifica about details of the incident.

Delucchi said the robbers apparently had been in Mustache's for six to ten minutes before he and the reserve officer arrived. They had bound the two women patrons with one-inch wide adhesive tape.

Only last week Delucchi was nearly knifed in an incident.

"The knife missed me by just two inches," Delucchi recalled.

A veteran of three years on the San Bruno force, Delucchi 2½ years ago worked a "Mexican standoff" with a mentally ill man who attempted to hold the officer off with a gun.

"But," the 26-year-old patrolman remembered, "I had the drop on him too."

Drop on Him

The drop was on him this morning, however, and thoughts of his wife, Marie, and two youngsters raced through his mind as the steel of the barrel pressed against his head.

He acknowledged, "The good Lord's with me."

"Glad to be here," sighed the reserve.

Tax to Aid Schools Asked

A new county-wide tax to aid some school districts, is being asked by Trustees of the Cabrillo Unified School District at Half Moon Bay.

The trustees note that recent state laws allow agricultural land to be assessed at lower valuation than residential land, as a means of encouraging retention of open spaces.

The reduced assessments result in lower taxation, and in less income for the schools.

Cabrillo's trustees are proposing a new tax to make up this "loss."

In a letter to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, they said:

The California Land Conservation Act has been enacted in the public interest by the California Legislature, and applied by our County Board of Supervisors in the public interest of San Mateo County. The wisdom of this legislation is clearly set forth in the legislative findings of the act (Gov. Code 51220).

However, the application of this legislation has created a serious loss of revenue for our school district. The assessed valuation of our school district was reduced by authority of this act in an amount exceeding $1,750,000, with a resulting loss of revenue in excess of $81,000. This loss of revenue required that we either drastically reduce the quality of our district's educational program, or levy an override tax of 25 cents.

short-nosed revolver.

The pair walked into the restaurant shortly after 8 a.m. while one of the employees was talking on the telephone.

Shoving a gun in the cook's ribs, the masked gunman whispered, "Hang up the phone and get your hands in the air," the cook, who asked his identity not be revealed, complied with the order and was pushed into a restroom.

The other gunman walked hurriedly past the cook and into the main dining section where another employee was cleaning. He was likewise ordered to "get into the restroom and stay there."

For more than 15 minutes the gunmen rummaged through the restaurant's small office, taking what cash they could find in drawers and cabinets. A larger amount of money was overlooked, police said.

The men wore beige-colored cowboy hats, dark jackets and light-colored pants.

Help For Food Biz

Will Thomas

Thanks to some energetic help from business, Capuchino High School is training some needed help for the food industry.

Some results of this program was spread on the tables last Thursday when Capuchino F.E.A.S.T. students put together a pre-holiday feast Thursday to show what the food, education and service training program is all about.

Under the eye of their food laboratory instructor Till Bertini, the youngsters put together an 11 a.m. luncheon from start to finish.

IT IS A technological program to meet the "growth of the restaurant industry," counsellor William Kinnealy explained, and is federally funded.

The instruction comes in the Capuchino students' third and fourth years. Nineteen are taking the course this year.

In their junior year, the student devotes the first four class periods of the day to the food preparation training. In that time he receives mathematics and English instruction as it relates to the food industry, in addition to the ins and outs of food preparation business — and dishwashing.

In his senior year — the second term of the program — the student is given one class period at the school and two periods in the field.

THEY ALSO work in the various district school cafeterias for a semester.

With assistance from Andy Castle, secretary of the San Mateo Restaurant Tavern Owners Association, the students take jobs with firms in the county, they might be cooks . . . or they could be dishwashers or sandwich makers.

The program at Capuchino, Kinnealy pointed out, receives considerable help from Mrs. Hilda Watson Gifford, director of San Francisco State College's center for technological education in Daly City.

DESK CLEARANCE — Beneficial Finance has opened new branch offices at 6350 Mission Street, Daly City, and a new glass company has been opened by Angelo Amicarelli and Roy Statham, at 40 Chester Street, Daly City, under the name of Associated Glass Company, reports Ray Lagomarsino of R. Tower On Bruno Peak No Hazard

A 220-foot tower atop San Bruno Mountain will not be a hazard to air navigation, the Federal Aviation Agency ruled today. After making a study of Kaiser Broadcasting company's proposed tower, which would reach an altitude of 1,480 feet above mean sea level, the FAA issued a report signed by Area Manager H. E. Aldridge.

The aeronautical study revealed that the structure, at the height and location proposed, is not in an airport runway clear zone and will not require an increase in any instrument approach minimum flight altitude, nor will it require the raising of minimum flight altitudes associated with overlying Federal Airways. Finally, the study disclosed that the proposed structure could not have any adverse effect on aeronautical operations or procedures. Therefore, no changes in aeronautical operations need be made to accommodate the construction.

Westmoor Check To Peace Corps

Joseph Farrell, director of the School Partnership Program for the Peace Corps accepted on behalf of the Peace Corps a check for $1,016 from Westmoor High School, Daly City.

The money was raised entirely by the students and faculty of Westmoor for the Peace Corps' School-to-School program. Mr. Farrell commented, "this is the most significant thing the United States has done overseas since the Marshall Plan.

Praising Westmoor for its work in the Peace Corps' program, Mr. Farrell stated that "the Westmoor Student Body has made a good start in contributing to the unity of men."

By helping to build a school for children who previously have not had one, Mr. Farrell also said, "we are contributing to stop these seeds of violence which spring from ignorance."

The check will be used to build a school in the small agricultural village of Maria Dias in the Municipio de Limoeiro de Norte, Ceara, Brazil.

Previously the school-age children of Maria Dias were taught "by poorly paid and inadequate trained municipal teachers, who held classes in their homes," said Mr. John Vandermide, the Peace Corps volunteer in that region.

First becoming interested in the School-to-School program after a neighboring community completed their school, the people of Maria Dias decided such a project was necessary for their 274 potential students. All of the labor to build the school must be voluntary, but as Vandermide said in his letter attached to the application for school-to-school funds, the people of Maria Dias are "quite enthusiastic about their chances"

The Peace Corps set up several criteria, to be followed by the applicants. Besides having no paid labor from the School-to-School funds the community must also have a qualified teacher available and have provided 25 per cent of the investment. A suitable lot and clear land title must be had along with sound construction plans. All of these criteria and others must be met at the time of application. The government of Brazil has already offered two teachers to the soon-to-be-built school.

The school which Westmoor is helping to build in Brazil will house first through fifth grades and will be available for students from six to eighteen years of age. This school will give the children of Maria Dias, which is made up of small farms and poor farmers, the chance for an education.

Another Perfect Season

For the football fans of South San Francisco High School, nothing is quite so rewarding as more and more and more repetition.

And so it was that the Warriors fans went home in ecstasy last night, having witnessed their team win the North Peninsula League football title for the third year in succession with a 27-0 rout of cross-town rival El Camino.

Before a near-capacity crowd of 5,000 at Clifford Field, the Warriors broken open what had been a tight ball game with a 20-point second half, en route to their ninth straight victory and without defeat this year, and their second perfect season in a row.

The win had all sorts of significance for the high-flying eleven of coach Ray DeJong — it was the fifth league shutout the Warrior defense has chalked up this year, it was the 29th straight game in which the Warriors have not lost, suffering only one tie in 1962, and it marked the 20th straight quarter stretching over the past four seasons in which South City has not allowed a Colt touchdown.

Halfback Russ Cottrell supplied the offensive punch with a fantastic night's total of 191 yards rushing in only 14 carries for a 13.6 average. He scored two and one-half touchdowns for the Warrior eleven with his longest run coming on an 84-yard touchdown jaunt.

The Colts put up a game fight for one half and trailed at intermission by only a 7-0 margin. Late in the second quarter Cottrell busted around left end for a five-yard scoring run. Quarterback Vince Olson's kick made it 7-0, Warriors.

But the Colt defense, revolving around Herculean efforts by tackle Keith Falsarella and linebacker Steve Nichols, tired in the second half against the persistent running game of the Warriors.

Nine minutes into the second half, Cottrell took a handoff on a halfback counterplay and, breaking two tackles, sped 84 yards downfield for the Warriors' second score.

Then came the half a touchdown for Cottrell. Early in the final period, the junior halfback ran through the right side of the Colt line from his own 28-yard line and appeared on his way for another mammoth run. But on the Colt 35-yard line an El Camino safety grabbed his shirt and started to spin him to the ground.

Just then end Mike Lloyd, who had been blocking downfield on the run, ran towards the play. Cottrell flipped the ball to Lloyd just before he hit the ground, and the Warrior end chugged the rest of the way for the touchdown.

Second-string quarterback Larry Aisterlind came in for one series of downs and made it count as he fired an 83-yard pass to end Dan Bottini for the final Warrior score.

The first-place Warriors "out-offended" their opponents, 414 yards to 213 yards despite the dogged Colt running attack centered around fullback John Castellanos, who carried the ball 27 times for 124 yards.

The Warrior defensive unit, which held the Colts to two first downs in the first half, harassed quarterback Frank Lucia all night, forcing him to throw early and often batting down his attempts.

Greg Bregante, Lloyd, Marty McDonough and John Costalupes maintained pressure on the foe's offense all night, forcing the Colts out of their normal game pattern of ball control. Often behind in yardage, Lucia threw 17 times and completed only seven with one interception. "We're Number One," screamed the fans. And as far as the North Peninsula League is concerned, no one will argue the point again this year.

Cap in M. P. L. Playoff

By GARY WHITE
Post Correspondent

Capuchino High School's football team again will pit its passing attack against the strong running game of the Mills' Vikings Thanksgiving Day in the final Mid-Peninsula League play-off contest.

If the Mustangs can win or tie the Vikings, as they failed to do in their first meeting a week ago, the MPL football crown will be theirs. Should Mills repeat its 43-34 mastery of Cap, the title goes to the Vikings.

Capuchino gained a berth in the title game in a most conspicuous way last night, scoring a 39-7 victory over Hillsdale before a disappointingly small crowd.

Of the fans who showed up for the play-off tilt, few could be certain if Capuchino Coach Gordy Young used his second and third-string units most of the last half to hold the score down, save his first string for the title tilt, or to make it tough on a throng of Mills' scouts.

Whatever the case, Cap's consistent offense and rugged defense were far too much for the hustling, but outclassed Knights to contain.

Mike Costanzo, the Capuchino quarterback who led the MPL in total offense and passing in round robin action, may have played his best game of the year.

Costanzo hit on eight of 12 passing attempts for 175 yards and three touchdowns, besides running in an extra point. On his only play in the second half, he threw a pass to Mike Mathis good for 23 yards and a touchdown the first time the Mustangs had the ball.

Mike Wynn, Cap's fine center, set up the Tangs first score when he crashed through to block Hillsdale's initial punt attempt. Under the direction of Costanzo, the Mustangs marched 25 yards in six plays to score on a tackle eligible play when big Mark Andrews caught a Costanzo pass that covered 12 yards, with 5:29 remaining in the first stanza.

As the first period came to an end, Cap began its second drive which covered 91 yards in just nine plays. Mathis shot through the left side from 29 yards out to score with 10:01 remaining in the first half.

The Knights moved the ball all the way to the Cap seven-yard line late in the second period only to lose the ball on a fumble.

On the ensuing play, however, Cap returned the ball on a rumble, making first and goal from the Cap eight. With 1:28 remaining in the half, and the Knight's unable to move the ball on the ground, Hillsdale quarterback John Ellis put the ball in the air only to have it intercepted by alert little Jerry Neary, who raced all the way back to the Hillsdale 32-yard line before being "bulldogged" down by Hillsdale's Lou Scott.

Costanzo took charge and completed two quick passes, the last to Jim Kauffman, who played an outstanding game, for 13 yards and the score.

A Soccer Feature

Le Pacini

Local soccer buffs who'd like to see something above high school level without much traveling or big expense could do worse than viewing neighborly San Francisco State's soccer Gators, who are currently featuring a fine player in junior Mike Beltran.

Although only in his first year at State, the personable Beltran is soccer co-captain, which figures, because at San Francisco City College he was not only an All-American, but was also president of the student body.

Even more surprising is that Beltran's playing out of position at center half, which is an offensive position. Mike had never previously played anything but defense. The rugged Mission district kid has also been playing on a bad knee which has limited his lateral movement, but as coach Art Bridgman says, "he has played with the pain because we need him."

A NATIVE San Franciscan, Mike was captain of his James Lick Junior High soccer team, where he received the Outstanding Athlete Award upon 1960 graduation. Though he only rarely loses his "cool" nowadays, in those days he was always willing to display to opponents the tricks of self-defense he had learned from his uncle, Ruben Hernandez, a promising heavyweight fighter at the time.

At Mission High Mike became student body president and led the Bears to three straight City soccer championships.

In '63 and '64 Beltran led the City College charge into the Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Conference title and State Junior College championship. He was All-Conference in both years, as a left fullback, team captain, Most Valuable and All-American in '64.

Beltran's played San Francisco semi-pro soccer for the past five seasons, four with the first division Vikings Athletic Club and most recently with the second division Union Espanola squad which placed second in the California Challenge Cup competition.

In his spare time he coaches a PAL soccer team in San Francisco. Naturally, his 12-year-olds won the title last year.

WHILE we're still on the subject of State College, it was refreshing to note, recently, an attempt — even though an aborted one — to throw a little nonconformity into one of the campus's last vestiges of conformity... the Homecoming Queen contest.

It was a simple yet diabolical plan. What happened was, the Block S ran a boy for queen, one "Essie" Harrison.

In reality the super-queen, before he ripped off his male attire and swung into the other, was mild mannered Bob Harrison, editor of the campus humor magazine.

It didn't work out, though. Essie dropped out at the last moment, feeling "she" was being unfair to the other candidates. Seems an informal poll detected a ground swell for "Miss" Harrison which would have swept her right into the float parade, and wouldn't that have been embarrassing for the old tradition.

JIM VASZKO, sports editor of the campus newspaper, the Daily Gator, brought the one genuine and reverent note to Homecoming festivities when he wrote of former athletic director Joe Verducci, who died two years ago on the eve of Homecoming. Said Vaszko, in part:

"So much has happened, and so many have forgotten, and so many more will never know..."

"That Joe Verducci, as assistant dean of students, was instrumental in formulating many of the policies of free speech that we enjoy on this campus; that he was the driving force that advocated construction of the Speakers' Platform; that he was on the ground floor of the Peace Corps movement; that he was athletic director, coach, consultant, confessor, advisor, teacher, father, and mother to so many of this campus; it has been forgotten by all but a few at S.F. State."

State, incidentally, will play host to the world famous Harlem Globetrotters, a la the Harlem Globe Trotters, on February 15 next year. They'll perform against a squad composed of State faculty and students, according to arranger Allen Abrahamn, acting athletic director.

ONE more note from State. Rifle-armed Bob Cavalli, who signed with the Boston Red Sox last season, came up with a sore arm two days after he joined the Virginia Red Sox in the Appalachian League. As a result he finished with an 0-0 record for 20 innings of pitching, striking out 30, walking 20, and compiling a 2.45 ERA. But the arm's okay now, says Cavalli, and he's eager for an eventual shot with the Big Team, which is in dire need of pitching.

Speaking of local professional baseball players, following are some stats, which were edited out a few weeks ago, on the Giants' three Daly City boys who toiled for Modesto in the California League. Alan Gallagher, 120 games, hit .316, had 8 homers and 78 RBIs. Bruce Hix, 132, .316, 10 and 100. Roy Reitz, 124, .330, 8 and 65.

OTHER LOCAL NOTES: Gary Prince, former Terra Nova All-League center (class of '62) is a Marine corporal assigned to the 3rd Division Viet Nam Battalion which recently won a Navy Unit Citation for heroic action.

Former Tiger Pompon girl turned professional ice skater, Charlotte Turner, is in San Francisco this week with the Ice Capades (a la Ice Follies). She's been all over the world, but this is the first time at home. And the last time we looked, Westmoor High's Richard Davenport was skimming around for the same outfit.

Steve Wilson, Sports Editor of Terra Nova's current issue of the school quarterly magazine, offers about as sound a philosophy of why the long distance runner so tortures himself as we've ever read.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES: Only four Raider regulars attended California colleges. The count is seven for the 49'ers (four from UCLA), five of them regulars. . . . Kansas City's Len Dawson, not old reliable George Blanda of Houston, is the only AFL qb to have twice led the league in passing. . . . Of the six highest single game totals of attempted passes in the AFL record book, Blanda holds five of them, his most being 68. Would you say George likes to cast off? . . . Oakland's Tom Flores has the best-ever professional average gain per pass completion for a single season—18.59 in '63. But Flores came back to earth after that. His lifetime average per completion is 13.7, for attempts, 6.74. In contrast, his local rival for the affections of pro fans, John Brodie, holds lifetime marks in those areas of 13.1 and 7.22, respectively.

Top Preps Honored As Scholar-Athletes

Cap And S.S.F. Talent

The son of a junior high school principal and the son of a Humanities professor at San Francisco State are the top scholar-athletes of San Mateo County.

Keith Falsarella, a 6-0, 205-pound defensive standout from El Camino High School in South San Francisco, and Jimmy Kauffman, a slender speedster from Capuchino High School, will represent San Mateo County in the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame banquet at the Jack Tar Hotel December 13. It will commence at 6:30 p.m.

The dinner, sponsored by the Northern California chapter of the National Football Foundation, will honor the best lineman and best back from each of ten Bay Area counties.

At the conclusion of the dinner, one of the scholar-athletes out of the group of 20 will be chosen and awarded a $1,000 scholarship. Last year's winner was Greg Jones of South San Francisco High School, currently enrolled at UCLA. The dinner will be presided over by former grid great Ernie Nevers.

Eight outstanding San Mateo County athletes and scholars were considered for the coveted honors, with the committee scrutinizing the youths for nearly two hours at El Camino High School yesterday.

Falsarella, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Falsarella, is 17-years-old and plays both offensive and defensive tackle on the El Camino grid team, which will meet South San Francisco for the North Peninsula League championship Friday night.

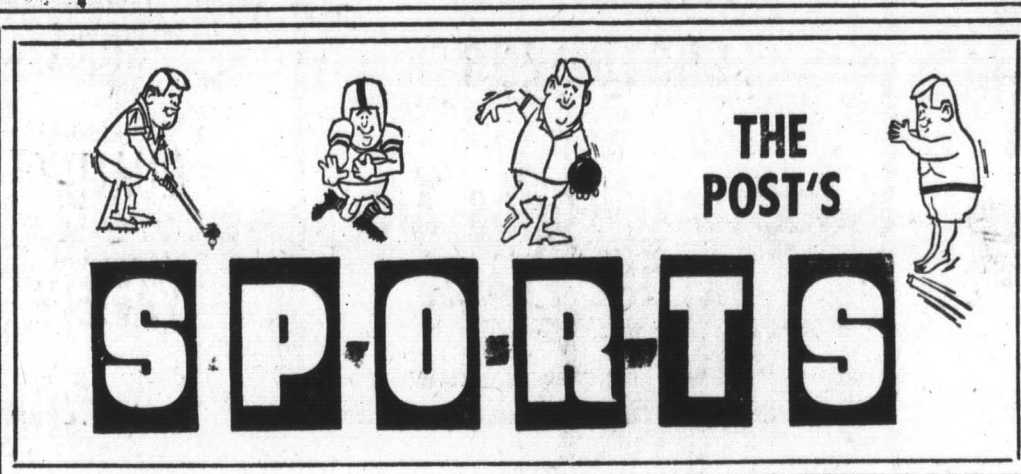

He is team captain and an outstanding offensive blocker, according to his coach, Bob Sexton. The youth has an over-all 3.8 grade average and was selected as a National Merit Scholar this year. An honor student since his freshman days, he is a student body leader and is presently competing for valedictorian for the class of 1967.

Kauffman, son of Professor and Mrs. Herbert Kauffman of Millbrae, has a 3.6 over-all grade point average and was an All-Mid Peninsula League football selection in 1965. This year, as the team captain, he has played five positions on the team and is Cap's leading scorer. He also plays basketball and competes on the track team.

Kauffman is student council president at Capuchino and a member of the California Scholastic Federation and the Cap Honor Society. His football team has lost only one game all season and is favored to win the MPL play-offs.

Other youths considered for the honors were Woodside High quarterback Don Bunce, South San Francisco halfback John Dougherty, Menlo School lineman Stacey Zones, San Carlos High quarterback George Oreglia, Menlo School halfback John Mackey, and Serra High end Hal Williams.

The San Mateo County selection committee was composed of El Camino High principal Bob Keropian, Capuchino High vice principal Paul Baldwin, Advance-Star associate editor Roy Hurlbert and Post sports writer Garry Niver.

Christmas Basketball Tournament

The Daly City Department of Recreation announces that entry blanks for the fifth annual High School Christmas Yuletide Basketball Tournament are now available from the Physical Education Departments of Westmoor, and Jefferson High Schools and at the War Memorial Community Center.

The tournament is scheduled to open December 19 and continue for a possible five more nights, depending on the number of entries. The other dates would be December 20, 21, 26, 27 and 28. Games will begin at either 5:15 or 6:15 p.m.

This tournament is open to all high school boys attending school in Daly City or living in Daly City and not competing on varsity or junior varsity basketball teams.

Boys are encouraged to organize teams of their friends and enter the tournament. Deadline for entry will be December 14 at 5 p.m. at the War Memorial Community Center.

D. C. Wrestlers Show Up Well In Tournament

Last Saturday the Daly City Department of Recreation hosted its first open wrestling tournament. High School and open class wrestlers from throughout Northern California came to compete at Westmoor Gymnasium.

Among the open class wrestlers competing were such names as Russ Camilleri and Frank Hankins, both members of past Olympic teams. Several collegiate champions also competed in the open class. In the high school division's several local high school boys upheld the honor of Daly City.

Bob "The Westlake Tiger" Morris romped home with the 145 pound championship. Dick Thill, recently recovered from knee surgery, took a third in the 135-pound Division and showed promise of tremendous improvement as he rounds into condition.

Playboys Are Winners Over D.C. Blues

Roy Reitz gunned 14 field goals and one free throw in leading the Daly City Playboys to a 41-21 victory over the Blues in the Daly City Recreation Department's Adult Hunch Basketball League.

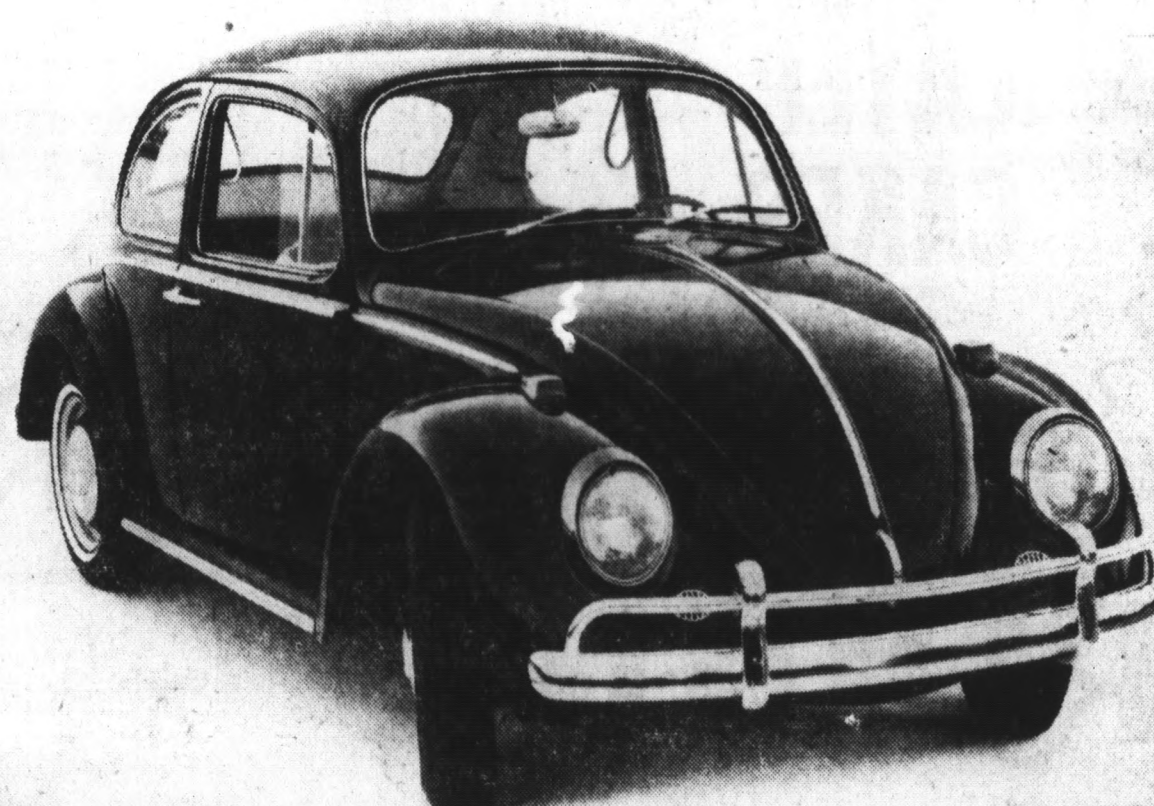

The local gendarmes, all strapping six-footers, couldn't contain the sharp shooting Reitz, who took over scoring honors with 77 points in four games. High point man for the Blues was Don Killely with 10 points.

The luckless Wildcats dropped their fourth straight. This time to the Half Pints by a 40-33 score. Bill King and Doug McArthur shared scoring honors with 16 points each. Rich Graham and Al Tabarez kept the Wildcats close. Tabarez hit for 10 while Graham popped in 12.

In the final game of the evening, Mac's Men put down the Warriors 40-28. Dave Williams was the big man for Mac and his boys with 18 points. The Warriors were led by big Jim Jurand who swished nine field goals and played his best game to date.

Do you earn too much to afford one?

For many people the Volkswagen would be an ideal car. Except for one thing. It doesn't cost enough.

They're afraid nobody will know they have any money, if it doesn't show in their car. In other words, they buy their car for other people. Not themselves. Then there are those who earn enough to buy a much better car than the VW. But they don't. Because they can't find one.

For them the best car is one that simply gets them there. Comfortably and economically. One they don't have to worry about. That doesn't make many stops for gas. And rarely needs repairs.

A car where the rare repairs don't cost very much. A car where the car doesn't even cost very much.

They feel they can afford to save money with a Volkswagen.

Now next time you see somebody driving a VW don't feel sorry for him.

Who knows? Someday the bank might be using his money to give you a new car loan.

An Array
Of Gifts

Louanne Heath

Home made goodies, indoor and outdoor decorations, candles, Christmas centerpieces, tree ornaments, advent calendars, and Christmas stockings, houseplants, childrens toys and even cook books will be featured at the Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mothers Club bazaar, according to Mrs. Theresa Zaro, publicity chairman for the club.

The annual event will be held on December 4, just in time for everyone to browse about in search of holiday presents. Even the youngest bazaar goer will find gift ideas delightfully suited to please a mother's fancy and a tiny shopper's pocket book.

Mrs. Zaro reports that the doors of the parish hall will be opened at 9 a.m. and the sale will continue until 2 p.m. with the early shoppers sure to be thrilled with the wide assortment of items.

MRS. Viola Greenwood is hard at work publicizing the upcoming Westmoor P.T.A.'s annual chicken dinner and basketball game on the agenda for Saturday, December 3.

Chef Al Smith will don his chef's hat to take charge of the kitchen detail that will be cooking delicious one-half chickens for adults and quarter chickens for the children.

Tickets will be sold for $1.50 per adult and $1 for children and will entitle holders to the dinner, a band concert by the Westmoor stage band, under the direction of Howard Loeffler, and a basketball game between the junior and senior boys. Mrs. Greenwood says dinner will be served between 5 and 7:30 p.m., with the band performance at 7 p.m. and the basketball game at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets for the basketball game only, costing 50 cents will be sold at the door.

Mrs. James Parker, ways and means chairman, and her committeewomen, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Charles Poggio, Mrs. Theo Bravos and Mrs. Bruce Russell have been hard at work on the arrangements for the evening which raises funds to finance scholarships for Westmoor seniors.

For reservations, call Mrs. Parker, WY 2-1916, Mrs. Russell, PL 6-1105, or Mrs. Greenwood, PL 6-7916.

RIORDAN Guild moms are being asked to remember that Sunday, December 4, is the date of the annual Mothers and Sons Communion Breakfast.

Mrs. Albert Bucci reports that Mass will be held at 8:30 a.m. in the Riordan High school auditorium and will be followed immediately by breakfast in Chamindade Hall.

The mothers of the junior division will be the hostesses.

ABSENT from the ranks when the members of the Daly City Community Chorus sang at Letterman Hospital this past week were Henry Ayella, recovering nicely from an accident, and Hugh De Francis, who has gone on a leave of absence so he can assist Santa Claus with his holiday stint in San Francisco's Macy's.

Chorus member Frank Benjamin, chairman of the Thanksgiving basket, will be delivering a generous supply of food stuffs and fancy holiday fixings to a deserving local family tonight.

MRS. Arnold Grumm has been formally introduced to the Red Cross representatives affiliated with the North Coastside Region of the American Red Cross, as the new chairman of its services.

Mrs. Grumm, an active community worker, has recently completed her term as president of the Pacifica Federated Womens Club and will now turn a major portion of her energy over to the direction of home nursing courses, mother and baby care programs, and mother's aid courses for high school girls. She also will be in charge of the continuing Amblyopia program.

MRS. Francis Morais is chairman of the Card-Party-For-C.A.R.E. being staged Friday, December 2, by the Pacifica branch of the Federated Womens Club.

The public is invited and everyone attending will be asked to contribute $1. to the C.A.R.E. fund. According to Mrs. Alberta Sullivan, publicity chairman, the members of the club are planning bingo tables and a white elephant sale, as well as cards.

Mrs. Eulalia Sumpter, branch veterans affairs chairman, is on a treasure hunt! Her goals are repairable items, paper back books, like-new ties and Christmas cards which the ladies will be presenting to the patients in a ward at the Palo Alto Veterans home this pre-holiday season. Anyone having items they wish to donate should call Mrs. Sumpter, 355-0412, for additional information.

THE Art Guild of Pacifica requests the pleasure of your company at their seventh annual Exhibition of Arts and Crafts on December 3 and 4.

Luther Spaker is the chairman of the exhibit and Mrs. Sherri Thomas, Robert Southworth, Mrs. Jean Patterson, Sydney Clart, Mrs. Roberta Ewald, Mrs. Alda Hokhuis, Mrs. Connie Hegedus and Mrs. Lillian Neathery are the members of the formal show committee.

Final arrangements for the show will be discussed Monday evening when the executive board of the guild meets for its monthly planning session in the home of Mrs. Hekhuis.

MRS. Cletus M. Hall of Pacifica was presented with her jewel pin and officially accepted as a member of Beta Sigma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International during the sorority's preferential tea held recently in the Daly City home of Mrs. Ralph Divers.

According to Mrs. Esther Hall, publicity chairman, Mrs. Michele Hughes, of New Mexico, formally transferred to the local chapter from her sorority in New Mexico during the same rites.

Mrs. Lois Orent, vice president, was in charge of the ceremony which was attended by Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. Donald Yates, Mrs. Edward Rubek, Mrs. James Chambers, Mrs. Walter Mitterman, Mrs. Edward Kuehnhoff, Mary Edwards and Mary Chenevey.

MEMBERS of the Fifty Plus Club in Pacifica are planning to tour San Quentin prison on Saturday, December 3, as the membership launches into its annual Christmas frenzy of activities.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan said the Santa Special trip, an outing for the members, their grandchildren and little friends and neighbors, has been scheduled for December 10 and the annual Veterans Party for patients at the Palo Alto Veterans home is set for December 17.

THE CAST and production staff of Jefferson's "Man Who Came to Dinner," dined at the Castle Lanes in honor of the play's success.

After the dinner, speeches were made by the various members of the cast. Mrs. Morgan was presented with a beautiful orange vase by the cast for their appreciation for the work she did to help make the play a success.

The play was staged November 9th and 10th. It was a hilarious comedy, presented in "the round."

This production was directed and produced by Mrs. John Mongan and student directors Wendy Woolery and Diana Lee.

It was an outstanding performance, which was very well received by the audience.

Senior Richard Ames had the lead, in the part of Sheridan Whiteside.

Other characters with major parts were Stephanie Zolezzi, Sue Taylor, Brian Stanley, Elaine Muriello, Phil Carrubba, Wendy Woolery Ken Heinbockel, Frances Tannlund, Michael Wille, Janet Rigler, Leonard Anspach, and Ray Howard.

Mr. Moseley, an industrial arts teacher at Jefferson, now on sabbatical leave, is busy since he took over as state president of the C.I.E.A.

Mr. Moseley has started to travel up and down the state meeting with State, Section, and Chapter officers of the C.I.E.A. During the past month he has met with the Industrial Education Planning Conference in Sacramento, met with the Contra Costa chapter in Con-

Terra Nova Topics

By MARIA MONTENEGRO

BAND instructor John Bentley is really making music at Terra Nova this year.

Bentley, new to TN, is raising the band to new heights. Judging from the band schedule, his philosophy seems to be "Keep playing!" and, judging from the results, it works.

The band has played, in uniform and marching order, at all of TN's football games this season. This included half-time record, held a State Officers and Section meeting at Los Angeles, visited chapters in San Diego, and attended the Kick-Off breakfast with the Santa Clara Chapter of the C.I.E.A.

With all these things going on Mr. Moseley still finds time to keep in contact with Jefferson.

shows at the Oceana "Big Game," our victorious Westmoor game, and last Friday's Homecoming game against Jeff. It has marched in three parades, including the San Jose State Homecoming parade recently, in which 13 school bands from Northern California participated.

For these and the school rallies, the band has been working closely with the majorettes and pom-pom girls to coordinate routines.

Scheduled for February 18, the band will host the annual district-wide school band festival. The yearly spring concert is also scheduled to be announced next semester.

BENTLEY has organized a band booster club made up of parents of band members and adults interested in improving the instrumental instruction program, sponsoring an awards banquet, giving scholarships, and organizing a one-week summer band camp. Bentley also hopes to organize and establish an honor band within the Jefferson district in which the top band members from each school would play.

All the musical activity does not stop there. The new band teacher is also the chorus instructor and has just recently organized a girls' glee club after school. If it works out well he tentatively plans a boys' glee club next semester.

Given time, Bentley should guide Terra Nova towards becoming another music capitol.

TN's junior class profited approximately $250 from their highly successful light bulb sales and $50 from Halloween candy, which they sold out on, reports Kathy McGrady, chairman of both sales. School pennant sales, headed by Rex Starr, have brought in $58 so far. This raises the class treasury considerably towards its money-making goal for senior expenses next year.

A.F.S. members start Christmas card sales this week. The American Field Service, Pacifica's foreign student exchange program, is applying to have a foreign student at TN next year and is raising funds for this. The cards, sold for $1.00 a box, have been designed by A.F.S. students from around the world.

Throng Expected
For Westlake's
Dinner Gathering

The largest throng ever to attend a Westlake Shopping Center Merchants Association function is expected at the posh Sheraton-Thunderbolt Hotel, Millbrae, Saturday night when "A Night to Remember" dinner-dance is presented for members, wives and special guests.

According to Shopping Center Advertising-Promotion Director Gene Perry, more than 250 celebrants will salute officials of the association.

One of the great name bands in Northern California will play the event. Sal Carson and his 17-piece Astro Recording orchestra, noted for its emulation of the arrangements and sounds made famous by the big bands of a decade ago, will play.

Honored guests will include Mr. and Mrs. James H. Trevor, shopping center owner; Mr.

and Mrs. Carl Cranor, general manager of The San Mateo Times, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward King, vice president-general manager of Henry Doelger Enterprises.

A cocktail hour will open festivities at 7 p.m. The affair is by invitation only.

YOU CAN BREAK THE RULES

More and more during the last few years, it has become a trend among decorators, both professional and amateur to break all the so-called "rules."

Everyone remembers, a few years back, when we were told never to use blues and greens together, but now we know that the right shades of blues and greens blend beautifully.

As a matter of fact, blue and green mixtures in the same fabric are extremely popular in both draperies and upholstery. This is an example that many of the previous rules have been thrown out of the window.

Today, you can also do more mixing of woods, periods, finishes and colors in the same room. There is a much greater trend towards mixing than matching.

The idea is that each piece of furniture should have individuality and personality of its own.

Yes, you can break the so-called old "rules" - provided the whole effect creates a harmonious picture.

And, what makes a "harmonious picture" in your home? We invite you to come in, talk it over with us, and take advantage of our free decorator service. We'll be looking forward to seeing you.

Our decorators, here at Sterling Furniture in Westlake Shopping Center, are at your service no matter what your decorating problem may be. We are open Wednesday and Friday evenings 'til 9 p.m. for your shopping convenience.

El Camino Art
Club Views The Rembrandt Show

A month of planning and arranging by the El Camino High School Art Club resulted in an excursion to the California Palace of the Legion of Honor's "Age of Rembrandt" exhibit.

Students from the art classes of Mrs. Elizabeth Schmidt and Mrs. Barbara Scoble and members of Miss Tova Duncan's French class joined the Art Club for the trip. An entire morning was devoted to the excursion.

The club also sponsors the annual El Camino High School Art Fair held each spring. A panel of club members act as judges to select the best posters promoting school spirit during the school's annual Spirit Week.

HOURS CHANGED

Because of early darkness, Pacifica playgrounds will close at 5 p.m. every day instead of 5:30. Playground participants should be made aware of the time change, a spokesman for the Park, Beach and Recreation Department said.

Couple Sets Date for Vows

DIANE DAVIS, WILLIAM GREEN

St. Veronica's Church in South San Francisco has been reserved for an 11 o'clock wedding on February 18 by Diane Davis and William Michael Green.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Davis of South San Francisco. William's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Green, also of the north county city.

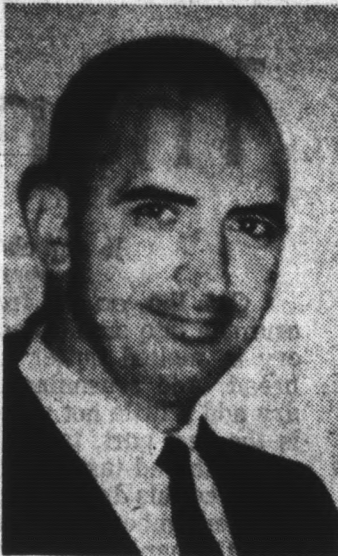

Diane is the sister of Clay Davis and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Huckfeldt of Lakeport. She is the grandniece of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Bracco and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barbeis.

The future bride attended Mercy High School in Burlingame and the College of San Mateo.

William is the brother of Raymond, Dorothy, James, Edward and Robert Green. He attended South San Francisco High School and CSM.

Diane has asked her cousin, Carol Canevaro to be her honor attendant. Also tapped for the wedding party have been Joan Vina, Edith Ann Ferrario, Judith Bakoi, Gail Mezetta, Elaine Gillespie, Marguerite Drake, Joyce Freeman, and Dorothy Green.

Raymond Green will be his brother's best man.

St. Veronica's Parent Information Meet Set

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Oswald, of South San Francisco, and their family, are circling November 28 for St. Veronica's Elementary School of Religion second Parent Information class. The meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria on Alida Way in South San Francisco.

At the meeting, the curriculum of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine classes, grades five through eight, will be explained. Also stressed will be the need of parent and family participation. All parents will be interested in the demonstration of liturgical practices that can be used in the home during Advent.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine provides for the religious education of 1343 elementary public school children of the parish. Mr. and Mrs. Oswald have been a part of the CCD since they were appointed members of St. Veronica's first CCD executive board. Oswald was the founder and principal of the High School of Religion until this fall. He now heads the Parish Lector Program. Mrs. Oswald was the first chairman of the Parent Education Program.

Mrs. Oswald taught five years in the High School of Religion. In 1962, with Mrs. John Arnato, she founded the parish pre-school neighborhood Parent Child program, and continues as co-director. She also serves the community as chairman of the S.S.F. League of Women Voters. At present, Gloria Oswald is chairman of the thirty-nine teachers in the Elementary School of Religion.

Catered Dinner On Thanksgiving

The Montefiore Senior Adult Group will celebrate Thanksgiving with a catered luncheon at 12:30 p.m., November 25, at the New Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center, where the group meets every Friday.

Reservations for Thanksgiving can be made at the next regular Friday meeting.

YULE THEME

A Christmas theme will enhance St. Veronica's School cafeteria on November 26, when school parents host the Ninth Annual Dinner-Dance, from 6 to 1 p.m.

Spindrift Playhouse Tryouts Set

Open tryouts for parts in a comedy, "Invitation to a March," will be held Wednesday, November 23 by the Spindrift Playhouse at Vallemar School, Reina Del Mar, Pacifica, at 8 p.m.

The Arthur Laurents Broadway success, which featured Celeste Holm and Jane Fonda a few years ago, will be directed by Nathaniel Marks.

There are parts for three men, a boy about 10, and four women. A stage manager, lighting and stage crew candidates also will be interviewed.

"After 'No Exit' and 'Burning Bright' the Spindrift Playhouse decided to give its audiences a sophisticated comedy as a change of pace," Marks said. "We feel also that this type of show will uncover some new talent in the coast area."

Information about the Spindrift Playhouse and the auditions may be had by phoning 355-3565 or 557-2037.

The Whole Family A Good Scout

Among the members of the Harold V. Humber family of 225 El Campo Drive, South San Francisco, everyone is a "Good Scout" and this includes Humber, Mrs. Humber and sons, Kent and Steven.

Humber is an Eagle Scout and holder of the Silver Beaver Award. His three brothers are all Eagle Scouts, and his two sons are Eagle Scouts. Humber was scoutmaster of Troop 179 for four years and served as a commissioner in the northern district for two years. In 1964 he took seven boys to the Valley Forge Jamboree. He is also a 27-time donor to the Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank.

During his term as scoutmaster Hal Humber listed six Eagle Scouts. Four of those Eagle Scouts started scouting with Humber. Although he recently retired as scoutmaster of Troop 179, Humber is now organizing a post to work with Scouts, ages 14-18.

Sons Kent, 14, and Steven, 17, are also recipients of the God and Country Awards, and Mrs. Humber has served as a den mother and an instructor for Boy Scout of America workshops.

Can-A-Gift Booth Planned

A booth for Can-A-Gift will be built in the Westlake Shopping Center and will be open between Thanksgiving and Christmas, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The principle of Can-A-Gift is to have a gift which one has purchased placed in a gaily decorated can which will be sealed at the booth in Westlake.

The cans are of two sizes which will sell for 50 and 75 cents, and are offered with a variety of labels.

Yule Sale

The next pre-festival event for Our Lady of Mercy parish will be a Cookie-Candy-Gift sale, December 11, in the parish hall, 7 Elmwood Drive, Daly City, after each mass.

Mrs. Jack Rose is chairman of the Cookie-Candy department.

TEENS

Starting on Wednesday December 7, a Co-Rec Drop-In program featuring a band practice session, will be held in the Oceana High Gym from 7 to 9 p.m. This will be a Weekly affair, and those bands wishing to sign-up for practice time may do so by contacting the Pacifica Recreation and Parks Department Office.

Because of some recent attendance lags, the Monday night Co-Rec at Terra Nova will be discontinued after November 28. Those interested in maintaining the program should attend the last scheduled meeting then from 7 to 9 p.m., in the Terra Nova Gym.

A Pacifica J-Teen Co-Rec is scheduled for December 3. Included in the afternoons activities will be volleyball, indoor softball, badminton, ping-pong and dancing. Refreshments will be served. Only members of Pacifica J-Teen Clubs may attend. The cost is 35 cents for members. Those wishing to join J-Teens may do so at the door; membership in J-Teens is 50 cents.

Weekly J-Teen meetings: Monday, Westview; Tuesday, Ortega; Linda Mar; Wednesday: Cabrillo, Vallemar; Friday, Sharp Park.

A Pacifica J-Teen Snow trip is being planned for December 17. It will be an all day excursion to an area with both skiing and tobogganing facilities. Sing-ups and registration will be taken at the Recreation Department office, City Hall starting on Wednesday, November 23.

'All My Sons' Staging Ready At Westmoor

"All My Sons" will be presented November 30 and December 1 and 2 at Westmoor High School's Little Theatre.

"All My Sons" placed in America, just after the second World War, concerns two men who, by manufacturing faulty airplane parts during the war, caused the deaths of many American servicemen.

One of the men is subsequently jailed, and the other set free. Much bitterness later evolves when the son of the jailed man returns home from the war.

Senior Dennis Klein, a dramatic novice, has the lead role of Joe Keller, the father who is imprisoned, but later exonerated because his partner took the blame. Rhodalynn Watton, a junior, will depict Joe's wife, Kate. Drama veteran, Randy Bloom, will portray Chris Keller, Joe and Kate's son who feels deeply the moral responsibility of his father. Chris' girlfriend, Anne Deever, will be played by Diana Bravos. George, Ann's brother, will be enacted by senior Dick Hammond.

Other Westmoorites with parts of neighbors are Chris

'Pacifica Players' Rehearse

Performance dates for their next production, "The Night of January Sixteenth," by Ayn Rand, were announced this week by the Pacifica Players.

Scheduled to run for three weekends on Saturday and Sunday nights at Oddstad Center in Linda Mar, the opening performance is set for January seventh.

Since its debut at New York's Ambassador Theatre in September 1935, "The Night of January Sixteenth" has played to capacity houses throughout the country, both professional and little theatre.

Contributing to the interest of this courtroom drama, is a play plan, unique in the theatre, which gets the audience into the act so that they are in the position of spectators, as in a real courtroom.

The jury for each performance is actually drawn from the audience, which evokes some interesting results. For example, experience of other theatre groups has shown that, at some performance, the jury votes for acquittal, while at others, they stand for conviction.

Director Charlene Amick, assisted by Gilda Forster, is now rehearsing the cast of 20—the largest ever assembled by the Players in their eight year history.

New Series Of Adult Programs Set by YWCA

The YWCA of San Mateo County announces a new series of adult programs to begin the last week in November. Among classes offered are oil painting, trim-swim, bridge, bowling, golf for beginners and a golf clinic for players.

Programs for youth and adults include Hawaiian dance, basic dance and ballet. For the pre-school child, enrollments can be made for one or all of the following: creative arts, creative group activities, parent-participation nursery.

For registration or for further information contact the YWCA at 375 South Mayfair, Daly City, or telephone 754-7370 or 71.

Whitney, who will play Dr. Jim Bayliss, Billie Joy Wilson, portraying his wife Sue Bayliss, Larry Meckler, who will depict Frank Luby, a believer in the stars, and Donna North, as Lydia Luby, Frank's jovial wife. Gary Aceret play one of the neighborhood children.

Westmoor drama instructor, Ken Brown, is the director.

Sugar 'n' Spice: Nell's Thanksgiving Dinner

By NELL NORTON

Shrimp Cocktail
Roast Turkey and Dressing
Souffle Potatoes
Green Peas, Onions in Cream Sauce
Pecan Pie

On that November day, so long ago, when our Pilgrim fathers took gun in hand and brought back a wild turkey to grace that first Thanksgiving table, they little knew that they were establishing a precedent that would endure through the ages. Of course we don't send our husbands out with loaded guns to bring home the turkey, but we do send them out to bring home the bacon don't we.

And as the ladies of that first colony busied themselves preparing that first Thanksgiving dinner, they never suspected that down through the ensuing years kitchens all over America would buzz with activity as following generations of cooks emulated them.

CERTAINLY our cooking situation is much easier than was that of the little lady of the house back in Pilgrim days. Our bountiful harvest is year-round, with the markets and frozen food sections bulging with unlimited varieties of foods. Our main hazard is avoiding being run down by a shopping cart, while Priscilla had to watch for wild animals and arrows as she gathered her vegetables. And the turkey? We simply wait to the market and order the weight we want and bring it home, clean and ready for the oven. Without having to pause and pick the buckshot out of his pinfeathers as Priscilla probably had to do. All in all, as the cooks of the household, we have much for which we should be thankful.

More important than this, if we are fortunate enough to have those whom we love with us on this Thanksgiving day, we are blessed indeed.

NOW to get down to the business of preparing this Thanksgiving feast. Start off your menu with a shrimp cocktail. Most everyone is fond of shrimp and it brings color and glamour to the meal. The sauce is easy to make ahead and pour over the shrimp cocktail when you are ready to serve.

SHRIMP COCKTAIL SAUCE
1 cup chili sauce
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 teas. prepared horseradish
1 teas. Worcestershire sauce
Dash of Tabasco sauce
Salt to taste

Blend lemon juice, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco sauce and chili sauce in a small bowl. Add salt to taste. Cover and chill in your refrigerator until ready to serve. Serves 6.

To serve, place a leaf of butter lettuce in dish, next a bit of chopped celery and top with cooked shrimp. Spoon sauce over and place crisp crackers on side of dish.

ONCE the salad plates have been cleared away it is time for the headliner to appear, the turkey in his brown and delicious glory. And for most of us, turkey means dressing. Tastes in dressing vary greatly, some using oysters, chestnuts, sausage, spinach and onion. Since this is the case, here is a basic sage dressing, which you may gussy up as you wish.

DRESSING
4 cups bread crumbs
1/2 cup margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasonings
1/2 cup chopped celery

1/2 cup chopped onion
Pepper to taste

Cut the crusts from two-day-old bread and crumble into small pieces. Sauté the onion and celery in melted butter and pour into the crumbled bread. Add seasonings. If the dressing seems too dry add a little hot water. Stir well and taste. (This is the best part, taste, and add more seasonings if you wish and taste again. But restrain yourself, for you need this dressing for stuffing the bird.)

Remember not to pack the dressing in the bird. For it expands in cooking, so keep it loose. And do remember to stuff the breast. It takes about one cup of stuffing to each pound of bird, so make plenty. You can always bake any that is left over separately. I've never heard of anyone having too much dressing on Thanksgiving day.

SOUFFLE POTATOES

3 cups hot mashed potatoes
3 Tbsp. butter
3 egg yolks
Milk to moisten
1 teaspoon salt

Add the butter, salt and beaten egg yolks to potatoes. Then add just enough hot milk to give them a nice moist consistency. Then place in a baking dish you can bring to the table, fluff up the potatoes into peaks and brush with one egg white beaten with one teaspoon water. Brown in hot oven. Keep an eye on them so they won't get too brown.

GREEN PEAS, ONIONS IN CREAM SAUCE

1 cup cream sauce
1 pkg. frozen peas
1 can small onions

Prepare the cream sauce. Pour over cooked and drained peas and drained onions. Place in double boiler to allow flavors to blend nicely.

CREAM SAUCE

1 Tbsp. butter
1 Tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
1/2 teas. salt
1/2 teas. pepper
Pinch of marjoram

Melt butter, blend in flour until smooth. Pour in milk a little at a time, stirring constantly. Allow mixture to come to a boil, then reduce heat and cook, stirring for three minutes.

This is a very stretchy recipe. For example, if you want to double it, just make double the cream sauce and add two packages of peas and the onions. Or if you like more onions, add two cans of onions and one package of peas. Let the number of guests be your guide.

THANKSGIVING just calls for pie, don't you agree? We usually have pumpkin or mince, both of which are delicious. But how about serving a pecan pie for a change? Rich and dark and topped with crusty pecans, it can't be beaten.

PECAN PIE

1 cup pecans
3 eggs
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup corn syrup, dark
1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
1 teas. vanilla
1/2 teas. salt

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs, syrup, corn starch, vanilla and salt. Mix well. Arrange pecans on bottom of partially cooked pie shell and pour the filling over the pecans. Bake 45 minutes in 350-degree oven or until pie is set. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Holiday Jamboree Being Planned By Girl Scout Troop 8 in Daly City

Girl Scout Troop 8 is planning a Holiday Jamboree, December 3 and 4, at 3346 San Jose Avenue, across from the Bank of America in Daly City from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Mothers and Scouts have been working for almost a year making handmade items to be sold. All Scouts of Troop 8 will be on hand.

Chairman of the different booths include: Mrs. John Voller for the boutique table, aprons and tote bags by Mrs. William Groerer; Mrs. Fred Mortara at the coffee and cake table; fancy candles and Christmas decorations will be handled by Mrs. Robert Eversole; the plants will be supervised by Mrs. Bernard O'Shea; popcorn and cotton candy will be under the supervision of Mrs. Wesley Joseph; Mrs. David Hatfield will be in charge of the White Elephant table; and Mrs. Ralph Stewart will be at the toy table.

At the wastebasket table will be Mrs. Jeannie Ramstetter. Handmade copper enamel jewelry will be made and sold by Kathy Bradshaw. Other tables will feature slippers, potholders, tissue toppers, golf mitts and many other beautiful gifts suitable for your Christmas giving.

General Chairman of the bazaar is Mr. William Bradshaw.

Proceeds derived from this sale will help finance a planned trip to Washington, D.C. in August of 1967. The girls chose this destination because it will bring to life the things they have been studying in Scouts and school, tying in with badge work of "My Country" and "My Government" and also the Challenge of Active Citizenship.

Meetings Every Monday Night

TOPS Club Members Are Sought

The local TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Club meets every Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the little club house on the corner of Miriam and Parkview (down the hill from Mission).

At the weekly meetings, the members discuss their problems and try to find the answers.

One of the most frequent problems is reading a calorie chart and selecting foods that enable weight watchers to enjoy eating, yet distinguish between "food friends" and "food foes."

A well-known authority on the subject is Mrs. Corinne Collins, who lives in Parkmerced, and is the author of "Key to Lasting Slimness." She will speak at the TOPS Club November 28.

Any adult woman who hopes to lose 10 pounds or more is invited to attend this meeting.

OIL PAINTING

MRS. PATTI STOLZ and children, Jeff and Sherice, were among the more than 8,000 Bay Area residents who spent a recent Saturday aboard the U.S.S. Enterprise. The Stolzses, and all others taking the special dependents tour of the ship, were treated to a day-long cruise off the California coastline with the captain of the ship putting his men through their paces before a thrilled group of spectators.

The Stolzses were the guests of Robert and Eugene MacLoughlin of Pennsylvania, a pair of young brothers who Patti met while entertaining at the Lutheran Servicemen's Center.

CUBS MICHAEL GILL, Ronald Guerwitz, Keith Hammerich, David Hill, Michael Happer, Victor Luzzi, James Maniates and Richard Wachter, accompanied by Mrs. Monte Hill and Mrs. Paul Gill, toured historic Fort Point, beneath the Golden Gate Bridge during a recent outing which took them to a retirement parade at the Presidio for an extra bit of excitement.

MRS. RUDOLPH HOFFMAN will be at her accustomed post when the Bethel Lutheran Church's Women's Auxiliary presents its Harvest Social tomorrow in the parish house, 2526 Alemany Boulevard.

Mrs. Hoffman has, for a number of years, manned the greeting and Christmas card table during the annual event.

N. County Republicans Elect Staff

The North San Mateo County California Republican Assembly elected officers for 1967 at their annual election meeting November 9.

Young Han Choo is the president; Richard Stegman, vice president; Mrs. Judith Temple, second vice president; Mrs. June Heise, secretary, and Mrs. Ida M. Choo, treasurer.

Mrs. Constance Halter, Jack Riaska and Nick Mialkovsky were elected to the board of directors.

Jack Bartalini was elected director-at-large to the California State Republican Assembly.

Fall Color Must Be Planted in California Home and Garden

By IVA NEWMAN

In the fall, travel ads are full of the excitement and beauty that may be experienced by a trip through the New England states to see the fall color. We, on the Peninsula, do not have this "wild" or native color to look forward to each year but we can have beautiful fall color by planting more of the easy care trees and shrubs that produce fall color.

A few years ago the California Horticultural Society held an "Autumn Color Festival," meeting. Seventy-one plants displaying fall color were brought into this meeting. Some of these plants were trees, some shrubs and some perennials and succulents. As this is the time of year to see the fall color plants we would like to pass along some of those displayed at this meeting.

Leading the colorful display were three varieties of liquidambar styraciflua that had been introduced by the Saratoga Horticultural Foundation. One liquidambar "Palo Alto," is noted for its uniform upright habit of growth, its brilliant orange-red foliage in the autumn and its predictable timing of autumn coloration. This very handsome variety was given an award of merit by the California Horticultural Society in 1959. A second named selection of liquidambar styraciflua introduced by the foundation was "Burgundy," which was introduced in 1963. This variety is noted for the early appearance of its new leaves in the spring and for its burgundy colored leaves in late autumn which hang on to the tree well into January. The third variety was liquidambar formosana "Afterglow," especially noted for its beautiful lavender-tinted young leaves in addition to its fall color.

The liquidambar are deep rooted trees that give no root problems. They are a symmetrical, pyramidal tree with a tall, straight trunk. After the trees have dropped their colorful leaves the interesting gray-brown, deeply furrowed bark attracts attention. These trees should be planted in full sun in order for them to achieve their best color in the fall.

Best Yellow

Tops in bright yellow colored leaves was the Ginkgo biloba, the "Sacred Tree of China." Each leaf on this tree is a small but perfect replica of a fan, deeply notched at the center and spreading out from the leafstalk to form a semi-circle. The leaves are a delicate light green from spring until fall when they turn a golden yellow. The foundation has propagated all male trees so there is no need for the home gardener to chance getting a female tree that produces the vile smelling fruit. This tree also has a deep root system that gives no trouble. It prefers a deep well-drained soil and deep watering once a month during the dry season. We have grown this tree in semi-shade and full sun and it has grown well and colored beautifully in both locations. In the close to 30 years that we have grown this tree we have never seen any pests or disease and we have never had to spray it.

Another tree, shown at the Autumn Color Festival that has been a joy in my garden is Pistacia chinensis. The fall color is orange and red (we bought our tree in late fall so we could be sure of getting one with a deep red coloring). This tree has a second season of color in that the foliage is a beautiful shade of red when it opens in the spring, it is bright green when mature. The pistacia is a round-headed tree with spreading and arching branches that arise from a short, stout trunk. The roots are deep so they cause no trouble. This tree was said to tolerate drought so long as the soil was deep and well-drained. We planted it on the corner of the property where it gets full sun and gave it a ground cover of ceanothus gloriosus. Both were watered regularly for the first three or four years after which they were left to shift for themselves. This was some five years ago and both these plants are healthy and vigorous. The pistacia is not only a beautiful tree but it is definitely a low maintenance tree in that it never needs spraying, bugs and disease shun it, and it seldom needs any pruning. We have cut a branch or two that interfered with the mail truck reaching the mailbox but that is all.

ACER PALMATUM DISSECTUM is an ideal dwarf tree for fall color. The finely divided leaves turn from a deep green to fiery red in early autumn. It needs protection from the hot afternoon sun and it makes a perfect pot plant for use on patios, large verandas and at entrances.

Dogwoods Double Performers

The dogwoods have two seasons of beautiful color, the beautiful flowers in the spring and the red tinged leaves in the fall, plus the red fruits. Cornus Florida, a pink or white flowering dogwood, starts the spring with rosy-tinged leaves which gradually change to bright green for the summer and then to bright red for fall. This tree has small scarlet berries in round clusters in the fall that are also very ornamental. The Saratoga Horticultural Foundation introduced a Pacific dogwood, Cornus nuttallii, that produced four-inch flowers. The dogwoods like a cool shady location and deep rich well-drained soil and summer watering.

Viburnums led the shrubs in the Autumn Color Festival. One of the most colorful was the old favorite V. opulis roseum, or the common snowball. Also shown was its Japanese counterpart, V. tomentosum sterile. V. opulis has pure white sterile flowers and V. tomentosum flowers have a greenish tinge. Aphids sometimes are a problem on the V. opulis but is said not to bother the Japanese variety. The "Highbush Cranberry," viburnum opulis has beautiful red leaves in the fall and equally showy scarlet fruits. All three of the above can be trained as small trees.

Among the evergreen viburnums, V. burkwoodii has shown with purplish-bronze fall color and V. carlesii with soft, velvety-red colored leaves. The evergreen viburnums prefer dappled shade but the deciduous ones can take full sun or partial shade but we have found they have more flowers and better fall color when given full sun.

The Wilson Barberry, Berberis wilsoniae, created a lot of interest because of its fine crop of coral berries. This is a partially deciduous shrub from China. It has a moderate growth to about six feet in height and width but it can be held to four feet with pruning. It is a sturdy plant with fine textured, light green one-inch leaves, and small yellow flowers in spring which are followed by the coral berries. B. thunbergii, the Japanese barberry is deciduous but its bright green leaves turn yellow, orange and red before they fall and after the branches are devoid of foliage the bead-like scarlet berries are very showy.

If you want bright color all during the year you should get B. thunbergii atropurpurea and plant it in full sun. The leaves of this barberry are a delightful shade of red, in the sun, but grown in the shade they are green.

The bottle brushes, Callistemon melaleuca, have their showy flowers in the fall. Callistemon and melaleuca are really two varieties but most nurserymen group them together as there is so little difference. While both of these plants are listed as shrubs they can be trained to make showy small trees with very little effort. Some of the bottlebrushes are rather stiff shrubs but others are pendulous. Here again it is advisable to choose the plants in flower and study the growth habit so as to choose the one that will do most for the place you want to see it. Bottle brushes should be pruned in late summer to discourage legginess and rid the plants of the unsightly dead twigs.

Some of the other plants brought in to the Autumn Color Festival were Nandina domestica (heavenly bamboo), Hypericum "Rowlane," Leptospermum scoparium, Cotoneaster "parneyi," Abelia "Edward Gaucher," English holly, and the Dawn Redwood.

The best time to plant magnolias is in the early spring, when the fleshy roots are just becoming active. However, we have found that these trees are extremely easy to transplant, from five-gallon containers, after our soil has been thoroughly moistened from rain. One of the reasons for success, when planting at this time of year, is the cool weather which cuts down on the evaporation of moisture from the leaves and the continued rains which cut down and sometimes even eliminates the need for hand watering. Top dress the newly planted magnolia with a thick mulch of old leaves, compost or well-rotted manure.

Book on Western Trees Is Published

A long needed handbook, "Trees of the West Identified at a Glance," by Maltilda Rogers, photographs by Wynn Hammer, ($1.95 paperback edition; $3.95 hardcover edition; The Ward Ritchie Press) has just been received from the Lane Magazine and Book Company of Menlo Park.

Maltilda Rogers and Wynn Hammer have collaborated to create a most handsome and practical handbook as an aid to recognizing the commonly seen trees of the West. Over one hundred and forty trees are covered in this small, five by seven inch volume that will easily slip into a man's pocket or a ladies handbag.

Full color and black-and-white photographs show the most identifying characteristics of each tree, whether it be the size, shape, the bark, the leaf, or the flower. Each photograph is accompanied by a brief description in non-technical language, which calls attention to the differences as well as similarities of the trees. The trees are referred to by their common name. It is too bad the author did not include the botanical names as California law requires all plants to be sold under their correct botanical name.

Santa to Visit Downtown San Bruno Friday

Santa Claus will visit downtown San Bruno November 25, at 11 a.m., and return each Saturday at the same time until Christmas.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Dick King said $5,000 worth of new Christmas ornaments will be added to the city's street decorations this year, and chamber members are considering special decorations for the new Civic Plaza at San Bruno and San Mateo Avenues.

Tom Palmer Jr. is chairman of the chamber's Christmas decoration committee.

This Evergreen Magnolia Grandiflora "Saint Mary," in the front garden of the Clifford Hatton home at 401 Thirty-first Avenue, San Mateo. This tree produces blooms throughout the year.

Magnolia Popular Flowering Tree

Magnolia grandiflora "Saint Mary," is one of the first of the improved forms of the very popular, large-leaved evergreen flowering trees.

This magnolia is growing in the small lawn area in the front of the Clifford Hatton home at 401 Thirty-first Avenue, San Mateo.

Magnolia grandiflora "Saint Mary" is a selected form of southern magnolia having deep glossy green leaves and attractive flowers. Glen Saint Mary Nurseries Company, Glen Saint Mary, Fla., found the original tree, propagated it and introduced it into commerce. It was introduced to the West Coast by the W. B. Clarke and Company, San Jose, to meet the needs of the small home owner who wished to grow one of these beautiful evergreens but did not have the space for the large southern magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. Hatton chose an ideal place for their young tree. The tree is 10 to 14 inches in diameter.

New Plea in San Bruno Lawsuit

Attorney Thomas Bocci, representing dirt hauling contractor Nicholas Ratkovich in his lawsuit with the City of San Bruno, said today he has petitioned the California Supreme Court for a rehearing of the case. The District Appeals Court in San Francisco, which reversed a San Mateo County Superior Court ruling in favor of Ratkovich several weeks ago, denied Bocci's request for a rehearing earlier this week.

The Superior Court decision of 1964 awarded Ratkovich $33,500, and prevented the city from collecting another $26,500 in fees. The lawsuit began in 1961 when Ratkovich contested a San Bruno ordinance levying a 2 percent ton fee on contractors hauling dirt over specified streets in the city. His company's trucks were hauling fill material to the San Francisco Airport.

Do-It-Yourself Show Set

Christmas is almost here and plans are being made for the ninth annual Christmas Do-It-Yourself Show by the Pacific Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department; this year's show committee. The committee is composed of Mrs. Vera Perrier, Mrs. Vi Kirby, Mrs. Marge McCoy, Mrs. Roseander, and Mises Ginny Silva and Fred Siebert. The show will be November 25 through the 29 at the Community Room of the Sharp Park Library. Christmas decorations and gift ideas, special demonstrations and refreshments will be offered.

Fall Leadership Retreat Draws Area Baptists

The annual Fall Leadership Retreat of the Northern California Baptist Conference High School CYF group will open at the Calvary Baptist Church in Turlock, Friday with several N. County Youth attendance.

Those attending from Westside Baptist Church include Pastor A. David Donnelly, chairman of the Christian Education Committee; Mrs. Jean Hernandez, co-sponsor with her husband of the High School CYF group; Misses Diane Swedberg, Lynda Faver and Twylla Anderson; Bob Swedberg and George Bradley.

Ted McReynolds, director of Campus Crusade for Christ work at University of California, with two of his co-workers, will lead in the four workshops on Outreach, planned for Friday and Saturday.

The theme of the Retreat is "Into the World."

Sunday, there will be no services at Westside Baptist Church of San Bruno. Members and friends of the church, will join with the church in Oakland, Lakeside Baptist Church, 1515 Third Avenue, for their 7 p.m. evening gospel service. Pastor Donnelly will conduct a baptismal services for several candidates for church membership. The Westside Mixed Quartette will sing two numbers.

"You Can't Outgive God" has been the theme for the month of November at Westside Baptist Church. Pastor Donnelly on November 27 at the 11 a.m. Morning Worship Hour, will deliver the final message on stewardship, "How to Enjoy Your Money." Special music will be provided by the adult choir, directed by Alton Swedberg, with Mrs. Clayton Anderson at the piano. During the latter half of the adult worship service, a primary church service is held for primary and kindergarten age children, directed by Miss Donna Wallin.

During the 9:45 a.m. Sunday Church School Hour, Pastor Donnelly is conducting a Pastor's Class for adults and youth interested in becoming members of the church, or to know what the church believes, and a history of the church and Baptist General Conference.

Westside Baptist Church holds its Wednesday evening Prayer and Bible Study Hour at the 7:45 p.m.

Thursday, because of the holiday, there will be no services or meeting of the church.

Paul M. Hupf, president of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men and the city attorney of Daly City, will be guest speaker at the Mother and Sons Communion Breakfast of Riordan High School. Mass will be offered in the school auditorium at 8:30 a.m. on December 4, and breakfast will follow in Chaminade Hall. Tickets are $1.25 per person. Reservations and information from the chairman, William Feeney, PL 5-7321.

Series Is Continued At Bethel

Bethel Church of Pacifica's Sunday School is presenting a series of lessons on the Constitution of God's Kingdom.

The first two articles were presented November 13 and November 20. They were entitled "The Citizen and Others" and "The Citizen and God."

The two remaining articles will be presented on November 27 and December 4. They are "The Citizen and Himself" and "Special Orders."

Sunday School Superintendent Richard Brown also announced that on December 4 a special gift will be delivered to Sunday School.

Bethel is located by Higgins Way and Adobe Drive in the Linda Mar District of Pacifica.

Ambassadors To Present Sunday Rite

The Christ Ambassadors of Bethel Church of Pacifica will present a special "Speed the Light" service during the evening Worship Hour at 7:30 p.m. November 20.

They will present a skit entitled "Watchman What of the Night" in which various young people and adults will participate.

A special offering will be taken to help with their "Speed the Light" pledge.

Speed the Light is a worldwide missionary organization designed to help missionaries purchase various needs such as printed materials, printing equipment, various means of transportation such as cars, boats, planes, etc. They also help in the building of churches on the foreign mission fields.

A Musical Program

A musical program will be presented at Temple Judea Friday, featuring some of the most treasured Hassidic music of the Jewish tradition.

The narration was prepared by Rabbi Herbert Morris, and Dr. Leonard Beck will direct the Temple Judea choir in this presentation.

This special service will begin at 8:30 at the Temple, on Brotherhood Way.

Students Taken To the Opera

Ronald Gustin, world history teacher at Westmoor High School, escorted 60 students and adults on the afternoon of November 22, to the Opera Guild Student Matinee to see Verdi's famous opera "Rigoletto."

Bethlehem's Thanksgiving Day Service

Thanksgiving Day will be observed at Bethlehem Lutheran Church with a service of worship at 10 a.m. announced the Rev. M. Douglas Swendseid, pastor.

The altar of the church is being decorated in a harvest motif.

The choir, under the direction of Howard Loeffler, will sing special music. The public is invited.

Pastor Swendseid will speak on the topic, "Thankful, for What."

Bethlehem Lutheran is located at 533 Hickey Boulevard in the Fairmont district of Pacifica.

Bethlehem Youth To Attend Meet

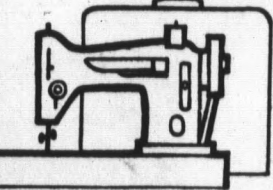

Nine young people from Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Pacifica, will attend a youth convention in Palm Springs this week, leaving by special chartered plane November 25 and returning to November 27.

Those attending include Sharon Pottinger, Sandy Reutzel, Lynn Hewitt, Donna Doan, Rachel Swendseid, Jeanne Thor-Spangler and Mike Spangler. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Spangler, Bethlehem youth group advisors, are accompanying the youth to the convention.

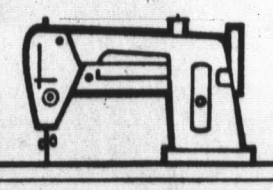

The convention is meeting under the theme, "Gotalight?" emphasizing the validity, for our time, of Jesus Christ as the Light of the World.

COMMENTTeacher's Scream:
Judicial Sympathy

At long last a teacher's lost voice has been treated with the judicial sympathy it deserves. A Haifa, Israel, judge, awarded a schoolmaster workmen's compensation because he shouted himself hoarse bellowing at unruly pupils.

This ruling will undoubtedly establish a long-sought-after precedent. Teachers will now feel free to shout down students who act up in class. If they get laryngitis as a result, so what. They'll be able to go to court and claim they lost their voice as a result of an industrial accident.

Taxpayers may be the only losers. Unless, of course, they band together and make culpable the pupils responsible for arousing a teacher's ire to such an extent that he lost his voice screaming remonstrances.

The Marquee

Topless
Next?

Barbara Bladen

Judging by the hearty response to the strippers' scene in last week's opening production of "Gypsy" at Circle Star Theatre, the Peninsula is ready for topless, burlesque and all those previous taboos that the city fathers used to worry about.

The laughs over Faith Dane's horn-tooting, tassel-twirling routine, augmented by the howling over Holly Babel's twinkle-lit costume and Betty Tesman's extravagant butterfly bumping, prove that the oomph hasn't gone out of the raucous musical. And patrons to the San Carlos theater-in-the-round have indicated they like their productions as close to the original Broadway staging as they can get them.

Gizele MacKenzie is smashing as Madame Rose, the mother of June Havoc and Gypsy Rose Lee, who was barred from back stage in theaters all across the country. Anyone having seen Ethel Merman in the original New York production or remembering Roz Russell in the movie version will find Miss MacKenzie's performance entirely satisfying.

She's not as brutal, not as coarse, and definitely not as loud as Miss Merman (who is). But she's a darn good hooper, looks and acts like a frustrated trouper and burns up a lot of energy belting out the Jule Styne-Stephen Sondheim tunes while walking all over everyone who gets in the way of her daughters' careers.

Tracy Moyer, a Peninsula girl, distinguishes herself in the role of June, the performer who could never grow up. "They're young women," Herbie says. "They're not and never will be," Madame Rose retorts.

As the ugly duckling sister who sheds her cocoon to become one of the biggest headlines on the burlesque business, Lois Roberts is a colorless Gypsy Rose Lee. She's supposed to be a secondary character while her mother is pushing Baby June, her sister, to stardom, but she blends into the background too convincingly. Partly because her voice is small, partly because she is petite in stature and mostly because she doesn't project personality.

LEW PARKER IS GOOD old reliable Herbie, the candy merchant turned agent turned lover-father confessor-provider and friend to under-aged chorines. He's personable, steadfast and manages a tune nicely. One of the most nostalgic scenes in the show is when Herbie takes Rose to dinner in a Chinese restaurant, and after she puts all the silverware into her purse, he dances with her to "You'll Never Get Away from Me." Miss MacKenzie doesn't have a loud voice. There are moments when the volume is being adjusted (Louise's Lullaby and later when she strips to "Let Me Entertain You") when the voices can barely be heard. Thank heavens for a good microphone system. Circle Star Theatre depends on it more than audiences know.

AS MADAME ROSE, she's best when she's acting, blowing off steam, giving orders, making demands, "I promised my baby we'd both be a star and we will," is the line that keynotes her determination to make the big time. And when she makes it with Louise, after Baby June runs off with Tulsa, a dancer from her vaudeville act, director Ernest Sarracino plays it up in high style. The circular top is rimmed with lightbulbs, Gypsy's name is blazoned in lights around the circular canopy, two runways are marked by bulbs up the aisles and the nearly rivals the Ann Corio "This Was Burlesque" show currently at the Curran Theater.

Jeff Parker is a bright addition to the show as Tulsa. He's an exciting dancer and his solo, "All I Need Is the Girl," is one of the high points.

The lighting was particularly poor last week. Either the stage was flooded in light or cloaked in darkness. It was very annoying during the big Minsky's burlesque number when the girls were adorned as Christmas trees and tinsled as ornaments, while Gypsy pops out of a gift-wrapped box wearing nothing but a sequined net leotard and a short fur coat. I could only see them as they passed by my seat running up the aisle.

As I said earlier, maybe the Peninsula is ready for a little nudity. Better prepare ourselves for it. There is strong possibility that when Producers Sammy Lewis and Danny Dare bring "Les Girls" here next month, they'll all be bare bodomed. Considering that the novelty is almost worn off in San Francisco, maybe it won't cause much stir at all. Maybe, I said.

Bunny Dee, a charming resident of the county, poses with Tennessee Ernie Ford, a frequent visitor to the San Francisco Playboy Club. Bunnies' costumes were labeled "torturous" by an ex-Bunny recently. The girls are expected to be both beautiful and "able to think for themselves," Bunny Mother Frankie Helms said.

A Bunny Next Door?

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Is the "girl next door" only that? Or is she a Bunny — a Playboy Club Bunny that is. There are presently some 28 of Hugh Heiner's dazzling lovely Bunnies hopping around homes in San Mateo County, 14 of which live in the North County.

A Bunny may be that girl next door when she's not at work, but once she enters the VIP atmosphere of the Club her life is completely regimented.

Her shoes must be shined and her nose must not be. A spot on her uniform and the Bunny is given a specified number of demerits. And all it takes is 100 demerits for a Bunny to get tossed out of the hutch.

According to Bunny Mother Frankie Helms the fastest way to get expelled is to fraternize with a customer. Second fastest route out of Bunnyland is to take a drink (of anything) in view of a club member.

Since its opening about two years ago, the San Francisco Playboy Club, where the county Bunnies report, boasts more than 30,000 key-toting members.

And don't think that little key isn't important!

Before a Playboy takes five steps inside the plush interior of the club, an alert Bunny asks for his key. From that time on all checks are billed to the key number.

A member may call ahead and have a guest key waiting for a friend or client at the door.

One Playboy described his club as "a Disneyland for adults."

"It is a prestige club where both husbands and wives may enjoy fine food and excellent drinks — in the presence of real calendar girls," the member said.

Each Bunny has a job to perform during her tour of duty.

They have a billiards Bunny, a cigarette Bunny, a camera Bunny, and, of course, waitress Bunnies.

In order to qualify for the VIP room, a Bunny must speak at least two languages. Some are fluent in four.

Physical assets alone are not a girl's passport to Bunnydom. She must be clever, charming and "able to think for herself," Bunny Mother Helms explained.

"Our Bunnies are taught to be both charming and clever. They learn how to meet any situation that may arise — such as an unruly customer," Mother Helms said.

She was quick to point out that there are few cases of "unruly customers."

The Playboy Club apparently attracts beautiful women like a magnet.

It also attracts magnates — those exalted businessmen who have attained the pinnacle of success and like the Very Important Person atmosphere of the club.

The truth is: few San Francisco clubs shower a member with the same attention displayed by the well-trained club Bunnies, according to several members polled recently.

More than 600 girls are now awaiting their cotontails. However, it might be a long wait, for few Bunnies leave the hutch.

A Bunny is reluctant to leave the hutch for many reasons. Foremost is the pay: A Bunny receives 15 per cent of all sales she handles. There is no tipping allowed.

If the life of a Bunny is demanding, the problems of a Bunny Mother can be multiplied by the amount of girls she supervises.

"They come to me with all their problems. Not all of the girls of course, but most of them do sooner or later. And I'm expected to know how to react to all these problems," Mother Helms, an attractive veteran of the Playboy Club chain, revealed.

A former Bunny gave a parting shot in the newspapers recently after quitting the Club, describing her venture there as a "tortured existence."

She said the uniforms were what "tortured" her most.

Those hour-glass figures Bunnies sport are a result of a strategically designed costume that binds their waists as tightly as the Chinese used to bind the feet of their women many years ago.

Crushed into the uniforms, complete with bow ties, French cuffs and full-length hose, Bunnies are expected to waltz gracefully around the room, serving customers. Of course all the girls do not wear the brief uniforms. Some uniforms consist of black sweaters and light colored skirts.

Although many Bunnies are married and have families, the customer is never given this rather startling news, apparently because it would shatter the image.

Bunny Mother Helms claims the married girls are dependable and "extremely good workers."

So good neighbor, is that lovely girl next door perhaps a Bunny? You can't tell by the long ears!

Bunnies wearing "outside" uniforms often are called upon to perform civic functions. Here two lovely Bunnies assist an unidentified civic beautification worker in performing his duties — namely planting trees in one of the city's renewal projects. Both girls live in San Mateo County. It is a policy of the Playboy Club never to identify their employees or give out addresses.

'Wedding Bargain'
—Slick, Delicious

Samuel Chandler

Poor Eliza Hanford who has worked eight years for the man she loves (wealthy, self-made Dan Morgan) decides that the time has come to chuck it all and look for another job. But when she goes to his office to resign, he asks her to marry him because other women are running him ragged.

A loveless, passionless marriage results. Before long, however, Big Dan is done in by the witchy other woman, by his partner, and to add to his sorrows he is indicted for murder. In the end love and justice triumph, as they should.

There you have the plot of the kind of thing that is the publisher's answer to TV. This one is entitled, "The Wedding Bargain," by Agnes Slegh Turnbull. It's slick and delicious; will take you right off of your seat if you are not careful.

"WAITING for Winter" by John O'Hara contains twenty-one stories that are too slick for me. Although they demonstrate once again that Mr. O'Hara is a pre-eminent story teller, they contain too many descriptions of sexual intimacies, too many homosexuals, and too much stark horror for my tastes.

Yet "Waiting for Winter" will be widely discussed, for

Mr. O'Hara is an artist with a controversial theme that people, by nature, are driven by an uncontrollable sex urge which leads to disillusionment and boredom.

To salute the season comes Miss Read's "Village Christmas." It is the story of two houses in a fictional English town called Fairacre. One house belongs to the Emery family—father, mother, and three girls. Mrs. Emery is a woman of our times—cheerful, chatty, dressed in slacks. She smokes too much; never worries if her children are untidy; and Margaret, who do not appear to be from her neighbors—and she is pregnant.

The other house is occupied by two timid spinsters, Mary AND Margaret, who do not approve of Mrs. Emery.

On Christmas morning the neat, shiny peace of the sisters is shattered by one of the Emery children. "It's Mummy," she said. "Could you come over, please. She's ill, and Daddy had to go to Grandma's." From then on the sisters experience a Christmas that is busy and exciting. It ends with the birth of the fourth Emery child—a boy.

MISS READ is the pseudonym for an English writer who has created a whole county of fictional villages to fit into the English countryside. Her works are as cheerful as an English scene on a Christmas card.

Yet, they are not gaudy or unreal; through them runs a deep strain that shows people searching for an elusive thing called happiness. As they brush each other, Miss Read's people experience both hate and love.

They misunderstand each other; they are naturally suspicious. Then comes an event that must be handled with empathy and self-sacrifice. In meeting the challenge they "warm up like frost melts before the sun."

Miss Read is not another John O'Hara, or even an Agnes Slegh Turnbull, but she's fun to read for a change.

Harry Golden's "Ess, Ess, Mein Kind!" (Eat, Eat, My Child) is being widely circulated. Among the little essays it contains are pieces about such diverse subjects as poverty, movies, female mammary glands. God is dead, liquor and sex, the good old days, and more.

ONE reviewer wrote of it, "The Carolina Israelite has the same conventional tone which Golden has made so familiar." Another calls it an amusing and informative book.

Better Business

'Vitamania' Called
A New Disease

Lorene Beasley

IT is part of the Better Business Bureau work to war on schemes which, besides taking money out of a community, are greater profit makers than the country's top industries.

Some five million dollars a year are spent on quack diets and reducing programs. The American Medical Association says, "Despite the excellent health we enjoy as a nation, America has contracted a new ailment, "Vitamania." Anyone who reads the popular media critically is astounded by the innumerable ads extolling the virtues of food supplements, tonics, reducing classes and devices, schools for those who want to lose weight and books with preposterous fad diets.

CHARITY frauds go on the year around but become increasingly active during holiday season. The American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel estimates that Americans contributed $10.6 million to charity in 1964.

About half of this went to religious activities. It is estimated that one per cent of this money, $100,000,000, is wasted outright through fraud or inefficient management. "Brother Damien," posing as a religious brother or as a priest, bilked Catholic organizations out of $150,000 in phony solicitations.

The mounting losses due to fraudulent use of credit cards has become a matter of serious concern to business. Twenty million dollars are yearly lost through the fraudulent use of credit cards by "Cardhoppers" who either sell the lost or stolen cards for cash or use them to "live it up."

Many of America's 34 million poor are elderly and substantially illiterate. The chances that they will be victimized by one, or a variety of sales and credit schemes, are better than average. A 70-year-old woman with visions of becoming another Grandma Moses, she had never held a paintbrush in her hand, signed up for a $650 three-year art course because she hated living on relief.

THE fraud field is limitless. Home improvement rackets cost Americans 500 million dollars yearly. Widespread publicity by the Better Business Bureau has greatly reduced debt consolidation, a fast-growing money-lending racket in the form of super usury practiced by unlicensed second mortgage brokers and others. Amateur writers are easy prey for con artists. The "dirty furnace racket" is conducted by the fellow who offers to clean your furnace free and then finds something wrong with the unit.

Some of the bait and switch schemes are patently deceptive and are always used with the intent to mislead and defraud. The referral sale racket, a new twist of the old "chain letter," tied up with the high pressure salesman, is one of the most vicious frauds in the nation. In spite of the warning on this scheme, slick promoters continue to dupe more and more customers. Once a victim has signed a contract, he has little, if any, chance of ever realizing a commission on his "referrals."

File these schemes away in your memory and protect yourself.

Block Parent System Set Up in S.S.F.

In co-operation with Hillsdale School and the South San Francisco Police Department, the Hillsdale P-TA has started a program for the protection of children going to and from school. Various women in the area have been screened and selected to serve as block parents during school hours.

These parents will have signs displayed in their windows, and will maintain a vigilance for suspicious or loitering strangers, speeding autos or motorcycles, children fighting and injured children.

The police department will train parents. No first aid will be administered except in an extreme emergency, according to Mrs. John Anderson, Hillsdale juvenile protection chairman.

If a child is seriously injured and parents cannot be reached, the South San Francisco Police Department will be notified. The police department will contact the proper emergency aid and attempt to locate the parents. Block parents will not provide transportation to any child without the parents' consent.

Jefferson Pupil Held in Theft

A 17-year-old Jefferson High School student was arrested and charged with a series of burglaries by South San Francisco police last week.

Police apprehended the youth while he was attending classes at the Daly City school.

Detective Jack Rhodes said the boy was suspected of being a member of a three-man burglar ring that had been operating in the South San Francisco area for more than four months.

Latest victims of the teen-age ring included four stores along the El Camino Real in the Buri

Shopping Center area which were broken into last August.

Rhodes said identification was established from fingerprints the youth left at the scene of the burglaries.

"We are still checking out the other suspects and hope to make additional arrests in the near future," Rhodes said.

He would not otherwise identify members of the ring except to say "at least one of them attends Jefferson High School."

Two beauty salons, a paint supply company and a camera store were among the gang's victims. Taken was a long list of items including cameras, cosmetics and cash, according to police.

S.S.F. Crackdown On Class Manners

South San Francisco Unified School District trustees adopted several changes in policy on student behavior last week, including provisions stipulating that incidents involving certain offenses must be reported to city police or "other appropriate law enforcement agencies."

Among offenses which will be reported to police in the future are threatening or striking a teacher or other school employee, possession, use or sale of narcotics or alcoholic beverages, and arson, attempted arson, or sounding a false fire alarm.

Among regulations added are two providing that a student may be suspended or expelled for possession or use of firecrackers or other explosives, or for "gambling, immorality or profanity."

A number of procedures for suspending students and readmitting students who have been suspended were also changed. In the future, parents of students who have been suspended for the third time must attend a hearing with the "coordinator of determine the conditions for continued school attendance."

A regulation was added stating "any student who has been suspended from school for more than ten days in one year will be referred to Baden Continuation High School, and any student who has once, during the same school year, been enrolled in Baden School may be suspended for the balance of a school semester."

Superintendent Dr. Paul Nielsen said the changes in behavior policy were recommended "after consultations with the administrators of the various secondary schools of the district."

Disneyland Trip By Carriers

Ninety-three Times carriers and their adult supervisors recently journeyed to Disneyland.

Six of these boys won a free overnight trip including a stay at the Disneyland Hotel, and sixteen other boys won a free one day trip. These trips were given as a bonus to the boys with the most area and district points earned by new orders on their routes.

This annual trip included jet transportation to Los Angeles, chartered bus transportation from the airport to Disneyland, admission plus any 10 rides, and cash for lunch. Warm weather was enjoyed as an added bonus.

Two days of expense paid Disneyland fun was enjoyed by the following area winners: Paul Fillingame of San Mateo, Gary Partee of Burlingame, Robert Baba of Daly City, Michael Connolly of San Bruno, and Raymond Jonas of Belmont. Area winner Albert DeValle of San Mateo chose to go with a friend on the one day trip.

One day trip winners included Robert Frost, David Adams, Lewis Scarpace, Nico Van ee, Mark Carollo and Mike Lombardi of San Mateo; Kenneth Brown and Robert Gort of Burlingame; Terry Tyndall of Millbrae; Gary Tjader and Michael Thompson of Belmont; Raymond Lim of Redwood City; Robert Bryant of Half Moon Bay; Kirk Olsen and Robert Denison of Daly City, and Mike Most of San Bruno.

Seventy-one other carriers went on money they had earned from their routes.

Student Held In Burglaries

South San Francisco police arrested another Jefferson High School student Thursday in connection with a series of burglaries which took place in the city last August.

The second suspect, a 14-year-old boy, was arrested at his home by Det. Jack Rhodes. He is a "frequent associate" of a 17-year-old student arrested Wednesday in connection with the burglaries, Rhodes said, and was implicated by the other youth.

2 Burglars Flee, Drop Their Loot

A dragnet laid by Daly City police last Wednesday failed to net a two-man team of burglars spotted in the act of breaking into a Santa Barbara Avenue home.

At least six patrol cars and some 15 officers took part in the swoop after a neighbor of the victim saw two strange men entering the Franklin Thompson home and called police.

While several units were deployed around the area, Det. Sgt. John Kolbman led a force of police to the scene.

Police surprised the men leaving the premises with a large bag of loot.

Dropping the bag, the suspects jumped a fence behind the home and ran towards San Francisco.

Police chased the pair for several blocks before losing them near Orizaba and Sadowa avenues across the San Francisco line.

Four San Francisco units also took part in the chase.

Police said the alertness of Thompson's neighbor was credited with recovery of the loot and near apprehension of the men.

"We wish more people would stay on the phone and let us know what's happening at the scene like this woman did yesterday," a police dispatcher said.

3 Teenagers Are Arrested

Three teenagers were arrested by Daly City police last week as they were attempting to break into the Colma School on Market Street.

Police apprehended the trio on the roof of the school building.

The boys had an assortment of tools in their possession, according to police.

They were taken to Hillcrest Youth Guidance Center.

Cycle Craze, A Danger?

By JOHN HORGAN

To most parents, teachers, law enforcement officers, doctors and insurance officials, the word "motorcycle" is a four-letter word.

But, to a San Bruno resident, this suddenly popular vehicle — dirty word or not for some — is a veritable lifeblood.

John Renesch, 2201 Princeton in San Bruno, is the producer of what he terms will be "the biggest cycle show I've heard of" on December 15 through 18 in San Francisco's Brooks Hall.

Renesch, who admits that he rode a motorcycle for the first time only two weeks ago, said that it is still a chore to convince parents that the black leather jacket syndrome is passe.

He also explained that the injury factor, while a real and a documented fact, is overplayed by authorities. "I look at this in the sense that anything that is a lot of fun and is done outdoors is going to have some element of danger in it," he commented. "Last winter, I skied for the first time and saw five skiers being taken down the slopes the first day I was out there. Believe me, I had some second thoughts."

Renesch said his show, entitled the "International Sport Cycle Exposition," will feature displays of safety equipment to inform the youth of the area of how to cope with the dangers involvement in cycling. Renesch further commented that he felt the state should offer some educational program to inform cycle users of dangers and possible safety precautions. "Educationally, the state only teaches kids about how to handle bikes," lamented the San Bruno.

Motorcycling, which has been virtually taken over in America by foreign manufacturers like Honda and Suzuki of Japan, has developed to such a degree in California that there are now over 310,000 registered motorcycles in the state. Renesch estimates that there are probably over 100,000 more motorcycles that are not registered to bring the grand total to something over 400,000.

"Some people (probably the anti-bike folks) estimate that there are as many as 600,000 motorcycles in the state," explained Renesch. "This is probably a bit high."

His show, which will cost $1.50 per adult, will feature the largest array of sport cycles, accessories and fashions for cycling from the world's leading manufacturers ever gathered under one roof in Northern California.

In addition, the show will award a sportcycle to some spectator each night of the exposition.

The affair will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. each of the four days and nights.

S.S.F. Girl In VISTA

A South San Francisco resident, Mary Finnegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Finnegan, 345 Arroyo Drive, was one of 55 trainees who were recently graduated from a VISTA training program at the University of New Mexico. Miss Finnegan will spend one year working with the Migrant Opportunities Program in Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss Finnegan, 22, was graduated from South San Francisco High School in 1962, and studied at San Francisco State College on a scholarship. Prior to joining VISTA last summer, she received a BA degree in history from the University of California at Berkeley.

Scout Honor To Broadmoor Man

William John Caldwell of Broadmoor last week received the Silver Beaver Award, the highest honor a local council of the Boy Scouts of America can award, during the Northern District's annual Recognition Dinner at El Camino High School in South San Francisco.

The presentation was made by San Mateo Council Pres. Lee E. Ham of Hillsborough for Caldwell's exceptional work with youth of the San Mateo County Council for over 12 years.

At present, Caldwell is a member-at-large of the County Council. Other awards he holds include the Scouters Key, Order of Merit, Woodbadge (from both Canada and the United States), the 10-year Veterans' award, the 50-mile award, and the Historical Trails Award.

Co-ed Adult Volleyball
Tee Daly City Recreation Department is now taking signups for a co-ed Adult Volleyball League.

An entry fee of $1.50 per couple will be charged. Teams will be made up of no more than five couples and no less than three couples.

All interested persons should sign up with Jack Campbell, recreation leader at the War Memorial Community Center any week night between 7 and 10. Deadline for entries will be November 28.

S.S.F. Girl Studied Hive Three Years

An eight year-old girl's curiosity to study bees led indirectly to a research-based indication that bee venom is a protective agent against lethal doses of radiation.

Three years ago, Jean Shipman, now 11, asked, "May I have some bees?" She produced a mail order catalog advertising complete home apiaries. Soon afterwards a glass hive was installed in the living room of her father, William H. Shipman, at 823 Byrn Drive, South San Francisco. The bees come and go through a length of hose which leads outside the house.

Shipman, a research chemist at the U.S. Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory in San Francisco, gradually became interested in the study of bees and did extensive reading on the subject.

What possible role might bee venom play as a protective agent against radiation? Shipman asked himself this question, overlooking nothing in the exercise of scientific curiosity. He next put the question to a radiological biologist, Dr. Leonard J. Cole of 242 Polhemus Avenue, Atherton.

Scientists at NRDL study nuclear radiation effects and means to prevent or minimize those effects. The use of bee venom as a radio-protective agent was a new idea worth exploring, the two scientists decided. They are from widely separated disciplines.

Shipman is in the nuclear technology division's nuclear applications branch, and Cole is head of the experimental pathology branch of the biological and medical sciences division.

After eight months of their own time of investigating the effect of bee venom on mice, Shipman and Cole have found that 80 per cent of a group of mice survived that were subjected to 825 Roentgens of X-radiation 24 hours after receiving subcutaneous injections of bee venom dissolved in sodium chloride solution. All of the controls with no venom protection died.

"Bee venom is a complex mixture of toxins, enzymes and other substances which have not yet been identified," said Cole. "We're not certain yet just how it affords the radio-protection that it does, but we're continuing our research to learn more about it."

The scientists have used three different sources of venom. Even though the samples represented summer, winter and spring venom, intercomparison revealed no differences between the batches in their findings. The venom used for the second series of tests was collected during after-work hours by Shipman and two other researchers, Dr. Don Kubose and Reed Atkinson, in the mountains near Santa Cruz at the apiary of Gregory Walls. Gradually Shipman is building up his own number of hives there, also. Approximately 50,000 bees, or 20-30 hives, must be milked to produce one gram of dry venom.

"Milking bees," explained Shipman, "consists of inserting an electrically charged glass plate in the bottom of the hive. The bees swarm onto the plate and sting it, discharging venom. Within about 10 minutes the plate is removed and air dried, leaving powdered venom on the glass."

"This is basically a non-destructive process," continued Shipman. "At most one per cent of the bees will be killed. A bee's life span is 35 days, therefore, milking can be done only every five weeks, because once a bee stings, he does not regenerate venom."

Permit Issued In Pacifica

A permit was issued to James A. Blanda, for remodeling a pool hall at 484 Manor Plaza in Pacifica. The building will be remodeled for use as a delicatessen at a cost of approximately $2,190.

Other permits issued last week were to Robert E. Murphy, $4,900, for addition to dwelling at number six Alcala Court, and Clifford Casey, Number five Creston Avenue, $740, addition to a dwelling.

'Pep Talk' For D.C., Colma C-C

Members of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce board of directors were given a good old-fashioned pep talk by newly elected president, John Wuerthner.

"We've got to get out and sign up new members," Wuerthner told the board last Thursday.

"It's true we have about 25 percent of the Daly City businesses as members now — but that's not good enough," he said. "We should have at least 50 percent."

Everyone nodded agreement. "Let's concentrate our efforts on the Bayshore District merchants. Presently, we have only S&W (foods) as a member. Let's show them we want them as members," Wuerthner said.

The board members agreed and set to work mapping out a plan for rounding up more members in the coming year.

The chamber's adopted slogan for the new year is "Our most important product is progress," and the members expressed a strong desire to support the bid for progress.

Elio Fontana, chairman of the chamber's membership drive, gave a brief report on strategy in getting new members, adding he would have a "full report" at the next meeting of the board in two weeks.

In other action, the board discussed installation of directional signs indicating the route to take to Mary's Help Hospital.

Many people see the hospital on the hill, but cannot find the right road to take to get to it, Wuerthner said.

Chamber Manager Pete Markovich informed the board that Daly City would not be included in college encyclopedias.

"I was asked by an encyclopedia company for information on our city," Markovich said. "Now Daly City will be in college encyclopedias throughout the country."

Daly City Mayor Albert was the scheduled speaker at the next chamber meeting.

Brisbane Mayor Edward Schwenderlauf commended the city's police at the council meeting last week "for executing their duty in upholding the law of this city in an exemplary manner" in a recent "show-down" with scavengers attempting to dump garbage in the city.

The city's police barricaded the dump area access road and stopped trucks from dumping November 4, and 49 trucks of the Sunset Scavenger Company of San Francisco were backed up at one time.

The company's attorney later obtained a restraining order, allowing the trucks to proceed with dumping operations, and the matter is still in litigation.

Another hearing will be held at a later date.

Mayor Schwenderlauf and other officials met with Caspar Weinberger, the city's attorney, in an executive session Tuesday to discuss strategy in the city's continuing legal battle with the scavengers.

American Traditions Thanksgiving

As a constant traveler all over the world, I have never encountered people who celebrate a day such as THANKSGIVING DAY.

I suppose most of them do not have much reason for such a celebration. Maybe the closest to the thought or the idea of our THANKSGIVING DAY is in Armenia where people make a real celebration out of a simple breaking of bread.

Perhaps it is very appropriate for me to invite each and every one of you to come to Omar Khayyam's, so we can break bread together, not only to renew old friendships, but to give me a chance to thank you for your many years of patronage, and unite in gratitude to God in the glory of being an American, and for the miracle of bread which has been the staff of life for time immemorial.

Now that our elections are over and Americans have spoken again with their God-given rights to vote for whomever they think is worthy of the great privilege of serving their state and country, perhaps this THANKSGIVING should give us a reason to get together in this old way and say that we are brothers, and thank God for our bountiful country and all the wonderful freedoms we enjoy here.

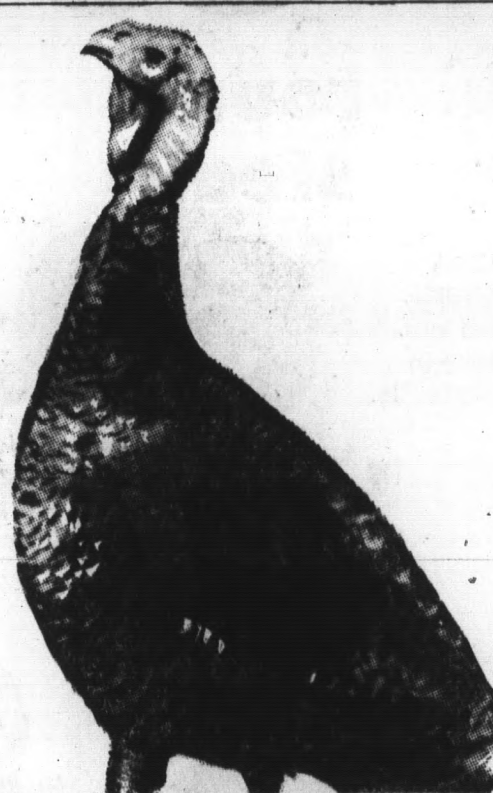

Gratefully yours,
George M. Mardikian

Westmoor Shop Adds Plastics

The Westmoor High School industrial auto department has become even more diversified with the advent of a plastic shop class.

Words like acrylic, thermo plastic, plex-glass, thermo set plastic, epoxy and resin may sound like part of a conversation between two engineers, but it is only the shop talk of the new plastic shop class.

William Cornejo, plastic shop teacher, states "The class will explore and investigate the various types of plastics common today." At present the class is making serving trays, but future projects planned are costume jewelry, lampshades and even ornamental grates.

According to Mr. Cornejo, "Creativity is the most essential skill a student can have." Because of the lack of equipment and space, the plastics class is presently being held in the metal shop.

The class is using both machines from woodshop and metal shop. Cornejo commented, "The purpose of making the serving trays is not the actual usefulness of the tray, but the experience for the student of using the hand tools and machines."

Future plans include making molds and patterns in order to produce products in mass production. The 29 boys and one girl, listen to lectures about plastics, and then go into the shop and directly apply their knowledge. Students taking part in this new course, agree that the course offers a challenge, since they feel they are working in a new and increasingly important field.

At present, there is only one other such class in the district at Oceana. Cornejo hopes to have more classes next year. Emphasizing the need for more classes, Cornejo states, "As the need for more plastic is realized, the need for individuals skilled in the use of plastic becomes even greater."

Paraffin Burns Woman

A San Mateo woman suffered a painful burn on her right hand this morning when she carried a pan of burning paraffin from the stove to the sink in the kitchen of her home, firemen report.

Mrs. Edwin Colberg, 445 Twenty-seventh Avenue, told Assistant Fire Chief David Lochner that she was heating the paraffin to place on some jars of jelly when the wax caught fire about 8:50 a.m. Flames spread to the hood over the stove before Mrs. Colberg carried the pot of wax to the sink to extinguish it.

Lochner estimated the loss at $1,000.

CONFIRMATION CLASS

Members of the Temple Judea Confirmation Class, their teacher, Mrs. Norman Steinberg, and Rabbi Herbert Morris have been invited to visit Guadalupe College in Los Gatos. The class is looking forward to this trip as part of their comparative religions study.

SCREENINGS

Bob Foster

Although all programs in prime time are now seen in color, few really utilize the color to enhance the value of the various shows.

At one time, before color became general, there apparently were enough homes with color sets to cause a color show to pick up a few, and often important, extra rating points. Now that all shows are in color they are on an equal basis to start with. Only the content of the shows now affects ratings.

There was an exception to this condition — the Jackie Gleason Show from Miami Beach on CBS each Saturday night.

Gleason, one of the few real showmen in television, has learned how to use the color camera to great advantage quickly. We took time out last Saturday night to catch the "Honeymooners in Spain."

THERE HAS NEVER been much of a question that Gleason knows comedy. Few today know it as well. He is one of the most talented people in show business today. Like most of the true geniuses of the theater, Gleason is multi-talented. He is a superb comedian, a highly talented song writer and musician, as well as being a producer with almost mystic knowledge of what the public wants today, and might want tomorrow.

It had been some years since Gleason had worked with his close friend Art Carney, but this relationship was a most important factor in Gleason's return to the air this fall.

Gleason told CBS he'd not return to the air during this season, unless he could line up Carney to play his buddy in "The Honeymooners."

At CBS in New York, there was some misgiving about reviving an old series after so many years, but that's what Jackie wanted.

It is sometimes all right, especially in show business, to turn back the clock if that turn back is tempered with the requirements of today. This is what Gleason has done.

Matean Protests Flight Patterns

Apparently irritated by jet winds. I have discussed this matter with many individuals in the San Mateo area. We are deeply concerned about the safety of individuals in this area as well as other areas.

On a southerly wind your planes on departure start the right turn over the most heavily populated area of San Mateo, namely the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, and go over Georgetown Avenue and the Aragon High School. On a northerly wind they come back on practically the same pattern.

The airlines indicate they probably will not answer the complaint, because take-off and landing patterns are specified by the Federal Aviation Authority.

Charles Jokstad, a retired Captain, 338 Georgetown Avenue, suggests that the jets be required to take off and land over the bay, and make their turns over the bay, in any weather.

Airport officials comment that traffic at San Francisco International Airport is so heavy that, if take-offs were to be attempted directly into landing flights (as would be necessary if all operations were over water), mid-air collisions would be more common than auto crashes on El Camino Real.

They note that approximately 97 per cent of the airport's take-offs are either over water, or "out the slot" above Daly City, with landings coming in over the bay or over a Peninsular route above San Mateo and Millbrae.

It is only during winds from southerly directions, they comment, that planes take off over San Mateo.

One airlines official, obviously annoyed at suggestions that his company did not care for the safety of citizens, suggested that Jokstad should also complain about the lack of safety in San Mateo due to the number of auto accidents on Bayshore Freeway, the number of shootings and murders in the community, and because police have failed to totally halt crime.

Jokstad's letter to Pan American Airlines said: "For some time I have watched your flight pattern both on arrival and departure and both southerly and northerly have been practicing for years."

For your lack of not taking proper protection for the safety of people and property in heavily populated areas, I will personally take every measure to see that no further expansion is made at the airport, as well as probably recommending scrapping of the present airport and moving to a location that would be safe for the entire population in the Bay Area.

For your own information, I have personally always used your service wherever your planes would take me, namely to Europe and the Orient. I wrote a letter stating what wonderful service I receive; and have highly recommended it to others. However, I surely cannot compliment you on the safety measures you are taking and both southerly and northerly have been practicing for years."

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A faint, dark smudge is visible near the bottom center of the page. The overall tone is a light, off-white or cream color.
